Black Feminist Fiction:

Politics and Affect in Black Women's Fiction Kathy Glass, 2017-12-15 Exploring literary possibilities Politics and Affect reads black women's text in particular Frances Harper's The Two Offers 1859 Julia Collins's The Curse of Caste 1865 Nella Larsen's Quicksand 1928 and Danzy Senna's Caucasia 1998 as richly creative documents saturated with sociopolitical value Interested in how African American women writers from the nineteenth century to the present have mined the politics of affect and emotion to document love shame and suffering in environments shaped by race Kathy Glass gives sustained attention to the impact of racist affect on the black body and examines how black women writers deploy emotional states to engender sociopolitical change

African Spirituality in Black Women's Fiction Elizabeth J. West, 2012-12-07 African Spirituality in Black Women's Fiction traces the beginnings and transformations of African spirituality in African American women's literature and culminates with an examination of its return to center stage in the fiction of black Renaissance writers Nella Larsen and

Black Feminist Thought Patricia Hill Collins, 2002-06-01 In spite of the double burden of racial and gender discrimination African American women have developed a rich intellectual tradition that is not widely known In Black Feminist Thought Patricia Hill Collins explores the words and ideas of Black feminist intellectuals as well as those African American women outside academe She provides an interpretive framework for the work of such prominent Black feminist thinkers as Angela Davis bell hooks Alice Walker and Audre Lorde The result is a superbly crafted book that provides the first synthetic overview of Black feminist thought

The Coupling Convention : Sex, Text, and Tradition in Black Women's Fiction Ann duCille Associate Professor of English and African American Studies Wesleyan University, 1993-10-19 What does the tradition of marriage mean for people who have historically been deprived of its legal status Generally thought of as a convention of the white middle class the marriage plot has received little attention from critics of African American literature In this study Ann duCille uses texts such as Nella Larsen's Quicksand 1928 and Zora Neale Hurston's Their Eyes Were Watching God 1937 to demonstrate that the African American novel like its European and Anglo American counterparts has developed around the marriage plot what she calls the coupling convention Exploring the relationship between racial ideology and literary and social conventions duCille uses the coupling convention to trace the historical development of the African American women's novel She demonstrates the ways in which black women appropriated this novelistic device as a means of expressing and reclaiming their own identity More than just a study of the marriage tradition in black women's fiction however The Coupling Convention takes up and takes on many different meanings of tradition It challenges the notion of a single black literary tradition or of a single black feminist literary canon grounded in specifically black female language and experience as it explores the ways in which white and black male and female mainstream and marginalized traditions and canons have influenced and cross fertilized each other Much more than a period study The Coupling Convention spans the period from 1853 to 1948 addressing the vital questions of gender subjectivity race and the canon that inform literary study today In this original work duCille offers a new paradigm for reading black women s fiction The Cambridge Companion to African American Women's Literature Angelyn Mitchell,Danille K. Vol 1 No 2 Half in Shadow Shanna Greene Benjamin, 2021-04-12 Nellie Y McKay 1930 2006 was a pivotal figure in contemporary American letters The author of several books McKay is best known for coediting the canon making Norton Anthology of African American Literature with Henry Louis Gates Jr which helped secure a place for the scholarly study of Black writing that had been ignored by white academia However there is more to McKay's life and legacy than her literary scholarship After her passing new details about McKay's life emerged surprising everyone who knew her Why did McKay choose to hide so many details of her past Shanna Greene Benjamin examines McKay's path through the professoriate to learn about the strategies sacrifices and successes of contemporary Black women in the American academy Benjamin shows that McKay's secrecy was a necessary tactic that a Black working class woman had to employ to succeed in the white dominated space of the American English department Using extensive archives and personal correspondence Benjamin brings together McKay's private life and public work to expand how we think about Black literary history and the place of Black women in American culture Deconstruction, Feminist Theology, and the Problem of Difference Ellen T.

Armour, 1999-06-15 The term feminism conjures up the promise of resistance to the various forms of oppression women face But feminism's ability to fulfill this promise has been undermined by its failure to deal adequately with the difference that race makes for gender In this book Ellen T Armour forges an alliance between deconstruction and feminist theology and theory by demonstrating deconstruction's usefulness in addressing feminism's trouble with race Armour shows how the writings of Jacques Derrida and Luce Irigaray can be used to uncover feminism's white presumptions so that race and gender can be thought of differently In clear concise terms she explores the possibilities and limitations for feminist theology of Derrida's conception of woman and Irigaray's multiple woman as well as Derrida's thinking on race and Irigaray's work on religion Armour then points a way beyond the race gender divide with the help of African American theorists such as bell hooks Hortense Spillers and Patricia Hill Collins
