Neurological Differential Diagnosis Roongroj Bhidayasiri, Michael F. X. Waters, Christopher Giza, 2005-07-01 Neurology is primarily characterized by a variety of diseases which seem very similar and are therefore difficult to distinguish between. Skill at differential diagnosis is therefore absolutely paramount. Neurological Differential Diagnosis is a streamlined handbook of prioritized differential diagnosis to be used both in clinical practice and for exam review. By presenting differential diagnosis in order of frequency and importance, this book provides a practical handbook for clinicians in training as well as a potential resource for quick board review. Whilst the book covers the most important syndromes and disease entities, readers are referred to other texts for more exhaustive differentials. By limiting differentials in this way to the most likely and most serious diagnoses, the reader can more easily recall relevant disease processes when faced with a particular clinical situation, whether it be a patient in the emergency room or a difficult question on the board examination. The book specifically targets neurology residents and fellows with overlap to neurosurgery and psychiatry. Internal medicine physicians with an interest in neurological problems and medical students looking for an edge in clinical neuroscience would also benefit from this text. The content is primarily mid-level material in a pedagogic format. In order to organize the students' thought processes, concise tables and line drawing templates are included. The book is organized into broad chapters by type of disorder, and some overlap occurs between particular chapters. Adult Neurology Jody Corey-Bloom, 2005-11-11

Blackwell's Neurology and Psychiatry Access Series Adult Neurology is a methodical yet succinct book that details neurological disease specifically affecting adults. This book is aimed at neurologists and primary care physicians, but medical students, residents, and physicians' assistants would also find this book useful. The book is organized into three main sections. Section 1 offers an organized discussion of the adult neurological evaluation, including the history and examination, electrophysiological studies, and neuroradiology. Section 2 covers common clinical problems in neurology and ways of evaluating, managing, and treating them. Section 3 illustrates the spectrum of specific neurologic diseases and disorders. Blackwell's Neurology and Psychiatry Access Series has been designed to teach the art of diagnosis and treatment of neurologic and mental disease, applying both deductive and inductive reasoning to arrive at a diagnosis and formulate a plan for treatment. The format of this book is unique in the way it presents information using boxes designed to provide the reader with additional information and wisdom from experienced contributors rather than just clinical knowledge. This approach introduces an inductive nosologic approach to diagnosis, employing discriminating consistent and variable features. Other boxes include Pearls and Perils, Consider Consultation, When Key Clinical Questions, and What They Unlock. New in this Edition: These boxes of information and questions prompt the clinician with time-saving questions that cut to the chase. This is a clinically relevant multifunction text.

Islam and Biomedicine Afifi al-Akiti, Aasim I. Padel, 2022-08-27 This book showcases multidisciplinary research at the intersection of the Islamic tradition and biomedicine. Within this broad area of scholarship this book considers how Islamic theological constructs align with the science and practice of medicine and in so doing offer resources for bridging the challenges of competing ontological visions varied epistemic frameworks and different theologies of life and living among the bodies of knowledge By bringing together theologians medical practitioners and intellectual historians the book spurs deeper conversations at the intersection of these fields and provides fundamental resources for further dedicated research

Dilts, 2012-12-06 Making sense of such bewildering problems as hallucinations paranoia depression and anxiety seems an incredible challenge but modern psychiatry is able to bring understanding and change to many of those whose lives are impaired by psychiatric problems This is not accomplished through the application of one dominant psychological theory but through the integration of perspectives of many such theories in this diverse field into a befitting approach the biopsychosocial model Application of the biopsychosocial model will allow for understanding the patient in biological psychological and social terms simultaneously and provide a holistic picture with multiple strategies for treatment In this book the author takes a step back from the assessment to demonstrate to the student methods of the information gathered from the patient into a clinically useful whole essentially showing exactly how and why the psychiatrist arrives at an intervention Adult Neurology Epz Blackwell's Neurology and Psychiatry
