21st Century Policing

Gabrielle M. Schermer

21st Century Policing:

21st Century Policing Gabrielle M. Schermer, 2015 Trust between law enforcement agencies and the people they protect and serve is essential in a democracy It is key to the stability of our communities the integrity of our criminal justice system and the safe and effective delivery of policing services In light of events that exposed rifts in the relationships between local police and the communities they protect and serve President Barack Obama signed an executive order establishing the Task Force on 21st Century Policing The President charged the task force with identifying best practices and offering recommendations on how policing practices can promote effective crime reduction while building public trust The recommendations issued by the task force are organized around six main topic areas or pillars Building Trust and Legitimacy Policy and Oversight Technology and Social Media Community Policing and Crime Reduction Officer Training and Education and Officer Safety and Wellness This book provides an overview of the recommendations of the task force Interim Report of the President's Task Force on 21st Century Policing Office of Community Oriented Policing Services, 2015-04-15 Trust between law enforcement agencies and the people they protect and serve is essential in a democracy It is key to the stability of our communities the integrity of our criminal justice system and the safe and effective delivery of policing services In light of the recent events that have exposed rifts in the relationships between local police and the communities they protect and serve on December 18 2014 President Barack Obama signed an Executive Order establishing the Task Force on 21st Century Policing In establishing the task force the President spoke of the distrust that exists between too many police departments and too many communities the sense that in a country where our basic principle is equality under the law too many individuals particularly young people of color do not feel as if they are being treated fairly When any part of the American family does not feel like it is being treated fairly that is a problem for all of us said the President It is not just a problem for some It is not just a problem for a particular community or a particular demographic It means that we are not as strong as a country as we can be And when applied to the criminal justice system it means we are not as effective in fighting crime as we could be These remarks underpin the philosophical foundation for the Task Force on 21st Century Policing to build trust between citizens and their peace officers so that all components of a community are treating one another fairly and justly and are invested in maintaining public safety in an atmosphere of mutual respect Decades of research and practice tell us that the public cares as much about how police interact with them as they care about the outcomes that legal actions produce People are more likely to obey the law when they believe those who are enforcing it have the right the legitimate authority to tell them what to do 2 Building trust and legitimacy therefore is not just a policing issue It involves all components of the criminal justice system and is inextricably bound to bedrock issues affecting the community such as poverty education and public health The mission of the task force was to examine how to foster strong collaborative relationships between local law enforcement and the communities they protect and to make recommendations to the President on how policing practices can promote effective crime reduction while building public trust The president selected members of the task force based on their ability to contribute to its mission because of their relevant perspective experience or subject matter expertise in policing law enforcement and community relations civil rights and civil liberties Policing in the 21st Century Dr. Lee P. Brown, 2012-12-29 Dr Lee P Brown one of Americas most significant and respected law enforcement practitioners has harnessed his thirty years of experiences in police work and authored Policing in the 21st Century Community Policing Written for students members of the police community academicians elected officials and members of the public this work comes from the perspective of an individual who devoted his life to law enforcement Dr Brown began his career as a beat patrolman who through hard work diligence and continued education became the senior law enforcement official in three of this nations largest cities The book is about Community Policing the policing style for America in the Twenty First Century It not only describes the concept in great detail but it also illuminates how it evolved and how it is being implemented in various communities throughout America There is no other law enforcement official or academician who is as capable as Dr Brown of masterfully presenting the concept of Community Policing which he pioneered As a philosophy Community Policing encourages law enforcement officials and the people they are sworn to serve to cooperatively address issues such as crime community growth and societal development It calls for mutual respect and understanding between the police and the community The book is written from the perspective of someone whose peers identify as the father of Community Policing and who personally implemented it in Police Departments under his command It is a thoroughly amazing book that has been heralded as a must read for anyone who has an interest in law enforcement Elected officials academicians leaders of the nations police agencies and members of the public will be captivated by Dr Browns literary contribution Final Report of The President's Task Force on 21st Century Policing May 2015 United States Government, 2020-06-17 Recommendations on improving policing in the United States contained in the Final Report of The President s Task Force on 21st Century Policing May 2015 Trust between law enforcement agencies and the people they protect and serve is essential in a democracy It is key to the stability of our communities the integrity of our criminal justice system and the safe and effective delivery of policing services In light of recent events that have exposed rifts in the relationships between local police and the communities they protect and serve on December 18 2014 President Barack Obama signed an executive order establishing the Task Force on 21st Century Policing The President charged the task force with identifying best practices and offering recommendations on how policing practices can promote effective crime reduction while building public trust This executive summary provides an overview of the recommendations of the task force which met seven times in January and February of 2015 These listening sessions held in Washington D C Phoenix Arizona and Cincinnati Ohio brought the 11 members of the task force together with more than 100 individuals from diverse stakeholder groups law enforcement officers and executives community members civic leaders advocates researchers academics and others in addition to many others who submitted written testimony to study the problems from all perspectives The task force recommendations each with action items are organized around six main topic areas or pillars Building Trust and Legitimacy Policy and Oversight Technology and Social Media Community Policing and Crime Reduction Officer Training and Education and Officer Safety and Wellness The task force also offered two overarching recommendations the President should support the creation of a National Crime and Justice Task Force to examine all areas of criminal justice and propose reforms as a corollary to this effort the task force also recommends that the President support programs that take a comprehensive and inclusive look at community based initiatives addressing core issues such as poverty education and health and safety Final Report of the President's Task Force on 21st Century Policing United States.
