Annals Of Dyslexia 2003 Annals Of Dyslexia:

Annals of Dyslexia Leong Che Kan, 2003 The Neuropsychology of Women Elaine Fletcher-Janzen, 2008-12-19 The Diversity in Clinical Neuropsychology series is designed to highlight cultural and moderator variables involved in the study of brain behavior relationships Historically the study of psychology and neuropsychology has focused on the male brain being the standard to which all or most variables are considered The study of sex differences is perhaps the most provoking and far reaching aspect of diversity because frequently women have unique assessment and treatment needs For example frontal lobe functioning tends to be more contextual for women than for men These brain functions have behavioral counterparts that directly relate to how interventions may be tailor made to suit the female rather than male patient The goal in neuropsychology is always to improve diagnosis and treatment outcomes and a cohesive summary of the neuropsychology of the female brain would raise awareness and cultural competency of clinicians in neuropsychology Authors will focus on sex differences in the neuropsychological cognitive and development literature ethnic and socioeconomic variables affecting diagnosis and treatment of women and social emotional and behavioral manifestations of neuropsychological sex differences specific aspects of reading with the advent of innovative neurophysiological measurement techniques The most common are electroencephalography EEG and functional magnetic resonance imaging fMRI These two methods provide researchers with the opportunity to examine in depth the neural correlates of the reading processing with precise temporal and spatial resolutions respectively This book presents data obtained from various studies employing behavioral electrophysiological and imaging methodologies in different languages focusing on the regular reading process and the dyslexic population Educators and researchers within neuroscience literacy and special education will benefit from Brain Research in Language The New Handbook of Multisensory Processing Barry E.
