Rangers Lead the Way Steven J. Zaloga, 2011-12-20 In the early hours of D Day 1944 a group from the US Army 2nd Rangers Battalion were sent on one of the legendary raids of World War II. The mission was to scale the cliffs overlooking Omaha beach and assault the German coastal artillery at Pointe du Hoc. It was thought that only a raid could ensure that the guns would remain silent during the D Day landings. But allied intelligence was wrong. After climbing the cliffs under aggressive German fire and securing the battery site, the Rangers discovered that the guns themselves were no longer there. It was only due to the heroic actions of the Rangers involved that the guns were located in firing positions facing Utah beach and destroyed before they could be used. In the first of a brand new series for Osprey, this act of audacious daring is brought to life complete with illustrated artwork, maps and rare German accounts. Taking a more critical look at the story, Steven Zaloga analyses every detail from the intelligence failings to the boldness of the Rangers in the face of such odds.

Operation Crossbow 1944 Steven J. Zaloga, 2018-07-26. In mid 1943, Allied intelligence began to pick up the signs of unusual German construction in remote locations near the Channel Coast. Several massive fortifications were beginning to take shape and they appeared to be oriented towards London. Allied intelligence codenamed these sites as Crossbow and began plans to attack them before they could bombard Britain's capital city. These Heavy Crossbow sites for the V 1 and V 2 missiles were supposed to be bomb proof but they soon attracted the attention of RAF heavy bombers with the new Tallboy concrete penetrating bombs. Fully illustrated with commissioned artwork and contemporary photographs, Operation Crossbow 1944 examines the dynamics of the world's first missile war. It also describes the parallel American efforts to develop missiles and assault drones to attack the Heavy Crossbow sites including the Air Force's Aphrodite and Navy Anvil projects.

RAF Evaders Oliver Clutton-Brock, 2009-02-19. Stories of the British airmen shot down over Western Europe who evaded capture by the Germans and made their way to Allied territory during World War II. During the five years from May 1940 to May 1945, several thousand Allied airmen forced to abandon their aircraft behind enemy lines evaded capture and reached freedom by land, sea and air. The territory held by the Germans was immense, from Norway and Denmark in the north through Holland, Belgium, Luxembourg to the south of France, and initially there was no organization to help the men on the run. The first one to assist the evaders and escapers was named after a naval officer, Pat O'Leary. From 1942, it became the PAO line. Next was the Comet line from Brussels to the Pyrenees. Thousands of brave people were to be involved for whom, if caught, the penalty was death. Theirs is a stirring and awe-inspiring story. Respected historian Oliver Clutton-Brock has researched in depth this secret world of evasion, uncovering some treachery and many hitherto unpublished details, operations and photos. It is a tremendous reference work written in his own colorful style with numerous anecdotes which fills a gap of knowledge formerly unavailable to historians, professional or amateur. Packed with information, key figures, biographies and listings, 2,094 evaders identified, this is a valuable testimony to the courage of all those involved.

The Most Daring Raid of World War II Steven J. Zaloga, 2011-01-15. Describes the 1944 Allied raid to secure Pointe du Hoc during D Day in World War II, including the army forces who executed the raid, the challenges of securing the area and how the raid
