High Resolution Infrared Spectroscopy in Astronomy Hans Ulrich Käufl, R. Siebenmorgen, Alan F.M.

Moorwood, 2005-07-18 Two specialized new instruments for ESO's VLT VISIR and CRIRES spawned the idea for this workshop CRIRES is a dedicated very high resolution infrared spectrograph VISIR features a high resolution spectroscopic mode Together the instruments combine the sensitivity of an 8m telescope with the now well established reliability of VLT facility instruments High resolution here means that lines in cool stellar atmospheres and HII regions can be resolved The astrophysical topics discussed in this rather specialized workshop range from the inner solar system to active galactic nuclei There are many possibilities for new discoveries with these instruments but the unique capability which becomes available through high resolution infrared spectroscopy is the observation of molecular rotational vibrational transitions in many astrophysical environments Particularly interesting and surprising in this context many papers on modeling and laboratory spectroscopy at the workshop appear to indicate that astronomical observations are lagging a bit behind in this field The papers are an interesting mix of reports from existing high resolution facilities reports on modeling efforts of synthetic spectra and reports on laboratory spectra In this sense a fruitful exchange between molecular physics and astronomy was again accomplished and is documented in this volume Infrared Spectroscopy in Astronomy Brigitte

Kaldeich-Schürmann, 1989 Infrared Astronomical Instrumentation Albert M. Fowler, 1998 This collection of works on infrared astronomical instrumentation includes 134 papers on topics within this field such as near IR arrays for ground and space based observation the manufacture of infrared optical components and infrared array cameras NASA Thesaurus, 1998 Contains the authorized subject terms by which the documents in the NASA STI Database are indexed and retrieved

IR Nelson L. Alpert, William E. Keiser, Herman A. Szymanski, 2012-06-22 The first edition of this text was written primarily by one of the present authors HAS with a chapter on instrumentation contributed by a second NLA The volume was well received and to keep the text up to date a second edition was planned For this second edition a third author WEK was invited whose background complemented that of the other two Each of the authors was assigned several chapters as his primary task while the complete manuscript remained the secondary responsibility of all three It is hoped that this approach has resulted in a work that is even more thorough than the first edition in covering the basic concepts of infrared spectroscopy NELSON L ALPERT WILLIAM E KEISER HERMAN A SZYMANSKI v PREFACE TO THE FIRST EDITION My experience with the many infrared spectroscopy institutes held at Canisius College and many discussions with both beginners and experienced practitioners in infrared spectroscopy have convinced me that there is a need for an introductory text devoted entirely to infrared spectroscopy a text which can be utilized even by those who approach this study with only a limited background This volume sprang from that conviction It is intended for all who wish to use infrared spectroscopy in research especially chemists doing structural work in routine control work in industrial development or in medical applications or those military applications where it is employed as an analytical tool Handbook of Infrared Astronomy Ian S.
