Alongi,2019-08-25 Test out your threshold of terror with these tales of monsters and demons journeys across the world and into other dimensions and maybe find out the most frightening creature of all ourselves Strap in for 15 new horrifying stories that will leave you gasping for air and begging for mercy Human Rights for Refugees and Other Marginalised Persons

Devorah Wainer,2023-08-07 This book provides a new framework for conducting qualitative research into Asylum Seeking Refugees based on Emmanuel Levinas ethic of the face to face encounter The methodology originates in the term Midrash a narrative form that exposes investigates searches It reconceptualises encounters between Asylum Seeking Refugees and those researching their experiences in a manner that moves beyond the possibility of Othering and the removal of voice that can characterise research into refugees This methodology allows a complex and rich multidimensional text with heterogeneity of voices experiences and subjects As a phenomenological method of research the internal phenomena of the researcher feeling intuition and personal perception are legitimate sites of knowledge and understanding and are not considered separate from the external objectively observable world While the researcher is not researching herself she is also not separate from the research field and data TheMidrash methodology is an honest and explicit method of research designed to re invigorated the passion of academics and researchers Père Goriot and Other Stories Honoré de

Balzac,1886 Displaced Women Lucia Aiello,Joy Charnley,Mariangela Palladino,2014-03-17 The essays included in this volume mostly originate from the conference organised by the editors at Glasgow Women's Library in March 2012 Language multilingual narratives and interaction between cultures and languages were key themes of the conference Interdisciplinary and international the conference like this edited volume brought together specialists working in a range of fields and provided an opportunity for exchanges between historians sociologists scientists and literary scholars as well as between theoreticians and practitioners academics and non academics In spite of these many different approaches all the papers presented here transcend the idea of national identity as an epic heritage or destiny both linguistic and literary and suggest a much more fluid definition of citizenship Working from this perspective and within this general framework both the editors and the contributors of this volume encourage a broader discussion on women's narratives of displacement that compels us to rethink the notions of mother tongue and native speaker and raises philosophical questions about linguistic ownership in other words whether a language is owned appropriated imposed or rejected and how women experience and express their sense of permanent strangeness The Right to Research Kate Reed,Marcia C. Schenck,2023-01-15 Refugees and displaced people rarely figure as historical actors and almost never as historical narrators We often assume a person residing in a refugee camp lacking funding training social networks and other material resources that enable the research and writing of academic history cannot be a historian because a historian cannot be a person residing in a refugee camp The Right to Research disrupts this tautology by featuring nine works by refugee and host community researchers from across Africa Europe and the Middle East Identifying the intrinsic challenges of making space for diverse voices within a research framework and infrastructure that is inherently unequal this edited volume offers a critical reflection on what history means who narrates it and what happens when those long excluded from authorship bring their knowledge and perspectives to bear Chapters address topics such as education in Kakuma Refugee Camp the political power of hip hop in Rwanda women migrants to Yemen and the development of photojournalism in Kurdistan Exploring what it means to become a researcher The Right to Research understands historical scholarship as an ongoing conversation one in which we all have a right to participate

Discourses of Memory and Refugees Siobhan Brownlie, 2020-02-06 This book explores the discourse by and about refugees and asylum seekers in relation to memory with a particular focus on the United Kingdom A series of studies using different analytical approaches is undertaken and together the studies shed light on this overlooked area of research The studies or facets presented in the monograph cover a range of contexts and discursive genres a joint BBC refugee authored television documentary refugees oral histories creative life writing by asylum seekers parliamentarians debates a reworking of canonical texts and sites in a protest campaign and non fiction testimonies and fictional works by later generations of refugee background The monograph introduces facet methodology to memory studies arguing that this approach could encourage interdisciplinary research in the field
