AIRPORT EMERGENCY EXERCISES

13.1 PURPOSE

13.1.1 The purpose of an airport emergency exercise is to ensure the adequacy of the following:

- a) response of all personnel involved;
- b) emergency plans and procedures; and
- c) emergency equipment and communications.

13.1.2 It is therefore important that the plan contain procedures requiring that the airport emergency plan be tested. This test should correct as many deficiencies as possible and familiarize all personnel and agencies concerned with the airport environment, the other agencies and their role in the emergency plan.

13.1.3 The airport emergency plan provides the framework which enables airport and community fire protection, security, medical, and other resources to join in an effective, co-ordinated response to airport emergencies. By using any of several types of airport emergency exercises, airport operators and community emergency resource managers can, first, produce an integrated emergency plan with a response based upon need and emergency location and, second, practice the procedures and co-ordination needed to accomplish an effective emergency response in minimum time. In addition, airport operators cannot truly have confidence in the airport's plan until they study it, revise it, study it again, and test it. Testing is crucial for determining where serious gaps may exist in the plan. For example, some individuals involved in the plan may have misconceptions or misunderstandings about it; some of the procedures that seem workable on paper may not work in practice; the written estimates of time, distance or available resources may be sufficiently inaccurate to cause problems. Testing the plan may afford emergency response personnel from the airport an opportunity to get to know each other and to know how other services operate. It may provide emergency response personnel from outside the airport an opportunity to meet airport personnel and to familiarize themselves with airport facilities, resources, traffic pattern, and identifiable hazard areas. The exercises should be conducted in daylight, twilight and darkness and in various conditions of weather and visibility.

13.2 TYPES OF AIRPORT EMERGENCY EXERCISES

13.2.1 There are three methods of testing the airport emergency plan:

- a) Full-scale exercises;
- b) Partial exercises; and
- c) Tabletop exercises.

13.2.2 These tests shall be conducted on the following schedule:

Full-scale: At least once every two years;
