Frontiers of Family Law Gareth Miller, 2017-11-01 This title was first published in 2003 The essays in this collection are written by academics and practitioners who look at some of the key aspects of family law Papers include one from Lord Justice Ward who gave the first judgement in the Court of Appeal on the case of the conjoined twins from Malta another from Judge Pearl who has been responsible for training the judiciary on the impact of the Human Rights Act on family law while Dr C Ball contributes a paper on aspects of the 1989 Children Act Parent and child contact across borders is dealt with in a paper by William Duncan who is Deputy Director General of the Hague Conference Other topics include medical evidence in child cases pre nuptial agreements and the re establishing of contact after divorce

Growing Up with Disability Carol Robinson, Kirsten Stalker, 1998-01-01 This book encompasses a wide range of perspectives on childhood impairment and its social implications The book adopts a child centred approach stressing the importance of communicating with disabled children and includes pieces of writing by young disabled people Preschool and school age children describe their behavior and feelings within their own families substitute families and residential homes The book explores how such children can best be protected and how their quality of life can be improved Using the social model of disability which identifies the material and social barriers to inclusion contributors give examples of progressive practice and examine the aspirations of young disabled people their friendships and how they come to terms with adolescence and the transition to adulthood

Evaluation in Child and Family Services Tiziano Vecchiato, Anthony N. Maluccio, Cinzia Canali, As child and family interventions assume greater international application it will be helpful to examine the various ways in which service innovations are being evaluated As demonstrated in the seminar from which these chapters resulted only by sharing our specific professional interests our too frequent problems in measurement our despair in implementing complicated studies and our successes can we advance the evaluation of human services and their outcomes This volume considers a variety of programs and issues in the field of child and family services While different perspectives are evident among the authors in terms of their focus and or emphasis there is common concern about the value of examining each program or service so as to maximize its impact as well as its potential for dissemination Intervention research should spur and motivate cross national efforts not only among researchers but also among social workers and other practitioners from diverse professions engaged in the delivery of human services Such collaboration would contribute to the ultimate goals of achieving greater clarity about the specifics of best practices in child and family services protocols for assessing outcomes and ways of improving service delivery How then can researchers and policymakers in diverse settings within diverse countries improve practice and service delivery on behalf of children and families What particular program findings can be generalized to improve services How can we share and implement new solutions The contributions to this volume address such questions from varying international perspectives Contributors provide answers and generate discussion points for consideration by practitioners as well as researchers The book is a must for social work parishioners in areas involving the delivery of goods as well as services Tiziano Vecchiato is scientific director of the Fondazione Emanuela Zancan Padua Italy Anthony N Maluccio is professor of social work at Boston College Graduate School of Social Work Chestnut Hill Massachusetts Cinzia Canali is research associate at the Fondazione Emanuela Zancan Padua Italy
