T. Stanbury,Fred

Thompson,Institute for Research on Public Policy,1982 From the Introduction This study examines the nature of and prospects for regulatory reform in Canada In particular we are concerned with the elimination of liberalization of direct regulation in such industries as telecommunications airlines trucking and agriculture In focusing our attention on the prospects for reforming direct regulation in Canada we do not wish to slight the potential value of reforming the regulatory process But most procedural reforms focus on the margin or flow of new regulation while deregulation proper is aimed at reducing the enormous stock already in existence Within the field of direct regulation we have further narrowed our analysis to the role of the federal government as regulator Canadian Primal Mark Dickinson,2021-02-18 Over the past few decades a group of writers we might call the Thinking and Singing poets have stood at the forefront of poetry in Canada

These five poets Dennis Lee Don McKay Robert Bringhurst Jan Zwicky and Tim Lilburn are major voices in an era of ecological devastation and spiritual unease Their diverse questioning work suggests new ways to confront some of the most pressing issues of our time In vibrant prose Mark Dickinson explores the relationship between the lives of these poets and their writing examining their intersecting careers and friendships and the ways they learned from and challenged one another Canadian Primal uses an unconventional approach blending biography with literary analysis and drawing from meetings and correspondence with each poet over many years to trace the people and events that inspired the creation of important texts Dickinson tracks how each of the writers arrived at poetry as a way of being and at the heart of their poetics he finds both a musical intelligence and the crucial importance of the land Canadian Primal is literary biography reconceived as an adventure of the mind body and spirit Ebullient intelligent and eminently readable it reminds us that we can live on the earth in a different way true to the defining experiences of our lives surrounded by meaning and presence beyond our imagining
