Mixed Emotions Kay Milton, Marushka Svasek, 2020-08-28 Emotions are of increasing interest in all the human sciences In the past two decades a growing number of anthropologists have explored emotional dynamics in a variety of geographic and cultural settings and have developed various at times conflicting theories of emotion This book fills a major gap by providing a concise introduction to the anthropology of emotions that outlines some of the major themes and controversies Drawing on fieldwork undertaken in Europe Japan and Melanesia the authors explore how consciousness memory identity and politics are intimately related to emotional processes A broad range of case studies covers such topics as how fear is managed in Belfast how Spanish gypsies grieve and why Japanese tourists are drawn to monkey parks This book will be of interest to anyone seeking to understand the formative impact emotions have on culture and society in an increasingly globalized world

Black Autonomy Jennifer Goett, 2016-11-30 Decades after the first multicultural reforms were introduced in Latin America Afrodescendant people from the region are still disproportionately impoverished underserved policed and incarcerated In Nicaragua Afrodescendants have mobilized to confront this state of siege through the politics of black autonomy For women and men grappling with postwar violence black autonomy has its own cultural meanings as a political aspiration and a way of crafting selfhood and solidarity Jennifer Goett's ethnography examines the race and gender politics of activism for autonomous rights in an Afrodescendant Creole community in Nicaragua Weaving together fifteen years of research Black Autonomy follows this community based movement from its inception in the late 1990s to its realization as an autonomous territory in 2009 and beyond Goett argues that despite significant gains in multicultural recognition Afro Nicaraguan Creoles continue to grapple with the day to day violence of capitalist intensification racialized policing and drug war militarization in their territories Activists have responded by adopting a politics of autonomy based on race pride territoriality self determination and self defense Black Autonomy shows how this political radicalism is rooted in African diasporic identification and gendered cultural practices that women and men use to assert control over their bodies labor and spaces in an atmosphere of violence

The Elephant in the Room Liz Kalaugher, 2025-05-15 A healthier future starts with seeing the human causes of wildlife diseases When new diseases spread news reports often focus on wildlife culprits rodents monkeys and mpox bats and COVID 19 waterfowl and avian flu or mosquitoes and Zika But in this urgent and engaging book we see it often works the other way around humans have caused diseases in other animals countless times through travel and transport the changes we impose on our environment and global warming With science journalist Liz Kalaugher as our guide we meet the wildlife we have harmed and the experts now studying the crosscurrents between humans other animals and health Herds of buffalo in Kenya cloned ferrets in Colorado and frogs shipped worldwide as living pregnancy tests for humans all help Kalaugher dive into the murky backstories behind wildlife epidemics past and present We learn that military conflict likely contributed to the spread of rinderpest or cattle plague throughout Africa devastating pastoral communities That crowded poultry farms may create virulent new forms of bird flu that spill back into the wild And that West Nile virus which affects not only birds and humans but other animals including horses skunks and squirrels is spreading as global temperatures rise Expanding today s discussions of environmental protection to include illness and its impact Kalaugher both sounds the alarm and explores ways to stop the emergence and spread of wildlife diseases These solutions start with a simple lesson when we protect other animals we protect ourselves Ambush at Amboseli Karen Rispin,2014-04-01 Being twelve
