Arms Race In Post Cold War Southeast Asia Prospects For Control:

An Arms Race in Post-cold War Southeast Asia Amitav Acharya, 1994 In the prevailing climate of uncertainty and apprehension about Southeast Asia's security outlook in the post Cold War era this study looks at the question of whether there is an impending arms race in the region It examines the factors behind the recent trends towards increased defence spending and force modernisation in countries in the region and what efforts should and can be undertaken to ensure that this build up does not become a threat to regional security and stability Arms Race in Post-Cold War Southeast Asia BPI Information Services, Amitav Acharya, 1994-01-01 Looks at the question of whether there is an impending arms race in Southeast Asia Examines the factors behind the recent trends towards increased defense spending and force modernization in countries in the region and what efforts should and can be undertaken to ensure that this build up does not become a threat to regional security and stability Arms, Transparency, and Security in South-East Asia Bates Gill, J. N. Mak, 1997 This report jointly sponsored by SIPRI and the Maritime Institute of Malaysia MIMA draws together the work of eight experts on armaments and Asia Pacific security affairs to present analysis and extensive data on arms and defence related transparency mechanisms in South East Asia It also includes a de facto arms trade register for South East Asia covering the period 1975-96 The book will prove useful to security analysts and policy makers seeking analysis of and practical approaches to transparency and confidence building in South East Asia The Arms Race in Asia Andrew T.H. Tan, 2013-12-13 This book is the first systematic examination of the emerging arms race in Asia The global trade in arms is to a large degree underpinned by the strong demand for arms in Asia and the Middle East the two largest arms export markets in the world Of these two regions Asia has become particularly significant led by the emergence of China and India as major powers It is therefore not surprising that the rapid military modernisation in Asia accompanied by significant increases in the size and sophistication of armed forces has generated attention as to its trends key characteristics causes and implications This phenomenon which has become evident since the end of the Cold War has also been widely described as an Asian arms race This book evaluates the key conceptual ideas which can shed light on this phenomenon as well as examining the complex mix of internal external and technological factors that have led to its emergence The volume explores the way in which the arms race is leading ultimately to three distinctive blocs in the emerging geostrategic landscape a loose bloc of US allies in the region a counter bloc of potential US adversaries and a neutral bloc of states with industrial age armed forces whose allegiances will vary according to circumstances and geostrategic developments The Arms Race in Asia concludes that if the emerging arms race is left unchecked it is likely that Asia will increasingly become a region of instability marked by conflicts and interstate wars The book will be of great interest to students of Asian politics strategic studies defence studies security studies and IR in general Constructing a Security Community in Southeast Asia Amitav Acharya, 2003-08-29 First published in 2000 Routledge is an imprint of Taylor Francis an informa company Arms Control in the Asia-Pacific

Region USAF Institute for National Security Studies,1999 The Arms Dynamic in South-East Asia During the Second Cold War Mark. G Rolls,2017-11-30 This title was first published in 2002 This work uses the concept of the arms dynamic to identify and assess the various factors which influenced arms acquisitions of Southeast Asian states during the second Cold War period from 1979 to 1989 providing an essential basis for understanding contemporary developments The book provides a comprehensive and systematic explanation of the reasons for arms purchases in SE Asia during the 1980s and aims to fill a gap in the literature by fully exploring arms procurement processes in the region prior to the end of the Cold War Security, Arms Control and Defence Restructuring in East Asia Bjørn Møller,2019-01-22 First published in 1998 this volume examines East Asia especially Northeast Asia which has been a region of considerable political security of importance for several key reasons It features several great and medium powers China Japan and Russia as well as North and South Korea Even though no arms race is yet discernible among these states with the partial exception of the two Koreas it is conceivable that one might commence If it did the level of militarization could become quite alarming if only because of the tremendous and rapidly growing economic potential of the regional states Even though relations among regional states except the two Koreas are currently peaceful the region features several unresolved issues e g concerning territory and a historical legacy of enmity between several states To prevent such conflicts of interest from erupting into armed conflict is of the utmost importance A stabilizing factor is that the military potentials in the region are still predominantly defensively oriented i e most states lack the requisite power projection or invasion capabilities to inflict serious harm on each other However this might change in the not so distant future Hence the importance of confidence building measures of an institutionalization of regional relations and of a strengthening of commitments to defensive military strategies and postures

Strategic Centrality Anthony L. Smith,2000 This monograph seeks to assess the role that Indonesia has played in ASEAN following the serious economic and political crisis that engulfed the state from late 1997 The paper gives an overview of Indonesian foreign policy since independence and its subsequent relation to ASEAN The Making of Southeast Asia Amitav Acharya,2013-02-15 Developing a framework to study what makes a region Amitav Acharya investigates the origins and evolution of Southeast Asian regionalism and international relations He views the Association of Southeast Asian Nations ASEAN from the bottom up as not only a U S inspired ally in the Cold War struggle against communism but also an organization that reflects indigenous traditions Although Acharya deploys the notion of imagined community to examine the changes especially since the Cold War in the significance of ASEAN dealings for a regional identity he insists that imagination is itself not a neutral but rather a culturally variable concept The regional imagination in Southeast Asia imagines a community of nations different from NAFTA or NATO the OAU or the European Union In this new edition of a book first published as The Quest for Identity in 2000 Acharya updates developments in the region through the first decade of the new century the aftermath of the financial crisis of 1997 security affairs after September 2001 the long term impact of the 2004 tsunami and the substantial changes wrought by the rise of China as a regional and global actor Acharya argues in this important book for the crucial importance of regionalism in a different part of the world
