Arms Transfers And Dependence:

Arms Transfers and Dependence Christian Catrina, 2021-10-23 First published in 1988 Arms Transfers and Dependence was written to provide a view of arms transfers in the context of the global distribution of power. The book analyses different types of dependence and is focused on comparing the enhancement of military capabilities as a result of arms transfers with the dependence that may be caused by those transfers. In doing so, it provides an overview of how particular structures of imports and exports of arms lead to dependence. Arms Transfer Dependence and Counter-dependence Strategies Panitan Wattanayagorn, 1993 The Economics of Producing Defense Yaacov Lifshitz, 2012-12-06 The Economics of Producing Defense Illustrated by the Israeli Case begins with an overview of the development of defense economics as a sub discipline of the general theory of economics and points at the new challenges it is facing in the post Cold War era. It focuses then on the supply side of defense economics presenting theoretical analyses and empirical findings related to the use of various inputs: manpower, domestically made defense products, imported arms in providing national security. Most of the issues under discussion are further elucidated by examples from Israel's experience. As a small economy that faces continuously severe security problems, Israel's way of coping with defense economic issues may indeed forward some interesting lessons for a wider audience. The principal aim of the book is to convince policy makers and the public at large of the contribution defense economics could make to more effective management of national security problems. This aim is encouraged by the growing weight attached to economic considerations and consequences in producing and supplying defense as demonstrated in the detailed discussion. Military Industry and Regional Defense Policy Timothy D. Hoyt, 2017-07-05 Military Industry and Regional Defense Policy re-examines military industrialization in the developing world focusing on policy making in producer states and the impact of security perceptions on such policy making. Timothy D. Hoyt reassesses the role of regional state sub systems in international relations and recent historical studies of international technology and arms transfers. Looking at Israel, Iraq and India, the three most powerful regional powers in the Cold War era, he presents an expert analysis of the three-sided phenomena of the regional hegemony, the regional competitor and the small over achiever. This new book breaks away from existing literature on military industries in the developing world which has focused on their economic and development costs and benefits. These past studies have used primitive methodologies that focus on the production of complete weapons systems, a misleading gauge in a world of growing international defense cooperation. They have also ignored empirical evidence of the impact of local military industrial production on Cold War regional conflict and of the defence planning and concerns that drove development of indigenous military industries in key regional powers. This new text delivers an incisive new perspective. "If We Don't Sell It, Someone Else Will" : Dependence and Influence in U.S. Arms Transfers Elias Yousif, 2023 If we don't sell them arms, someone else will, has become a well known refrain in the arms trade world, implying that partners cut off from U.S. defense exports will quickly source them from other suppliers But there is reason to believe that there is far more complexity to the issue than suggested by this simple axiom Multiple factors shape the cost benefit analysis of partners considering turning to alternative defense exporters as a result of arms transfer suspensions curtailments or conditions imposed by the United States suggesting a need to reexamine key assumptions underpinning the U S security cooperation enterprise

Ethical Dilemmas in the Global Defense Industry Daniel Schoeni,Tobias Vestner,2023-03-17 The defense industry develops produces and sells weapons that cause great harm It operates at the intersection of the public and private sectors with increased reliance on technology companies This book brings together the diverse perspectives of scholars and practitioners from academia government service the military and the private sector to discuss the moral and legal challenges facing the global defense industry and to introduce solutions that are innovative effective and practical

No Shortcuts Max Smeets,2022-08-01 Over the past decade numerous states have declared cyberspace as a new domain of warfare sought to develop a military cyber strategy and establish a cyber command These developments have led to much policy talk and concern about the future of warfare as well as the digital vulnerability of society No Shortcuts provides a level headed view of where we are in the militarization of cyberspace In this book Max Smeets bridges the divide between technology and policy to assess the necessary building blocks for states to develop a military cyber capacity Smeets argues that for many states the barriers to entry into conflict in cyberspace are currently too high Accompanied by a wide range of empirical examples Smeets shows why governments abilities to develop military cyber capabilities might change over time and explains the limits of capability transfer by states and private actors
