Art Criticism: How to Critique Art

de Beaufort

In preparation for our museum visit, we need to develop a critical strategy for talking about the art that we will be viewing. Although we may think of art as a primarily subjective experience, there are ways that we can develop a shared language to understand how the piece works formally(visually), how we personally experience the piece, and how it intersects with the world at large.

For each stage in the analysis write a separate section/paragraph with at least 5-6 sentences each. Please type your criticism and attach an image of the work that you have found on the museum web-site. Please do not photograph the works.

The strategy we are using first outlined by Edmund Feldman in the 1960's, places an emphasis on your active participation in the process of criticism.

Description

Before we make any evaluations or interpretations, we must look at the work with the most objectivity possible. Use the Visual Elements we've discussed to identify formal characteristics and qualities of the work to make a description. You must also record the title, artist(s), medium, dimensions, and date. Think of this step as if you were describing the work to someone over the phone who had not seen it. Please do not use loaded or opinionated words such as "ugly" or "awesome", but try and remain factual and impartial.

Some questions to consider:

- What is the subject of the work?
- What media is the work executed in?
- What is the size/scale ?

Art Experiences And Criticism:

Art Experiences and Criticism William T. Squires, Squires, 1991-08-01

The Art Experience Alex Rajczi, 2024-04-24

The Art Experience An Introduction to Philosophy and the Arts takes readers on an engaging and accessible journey that explores a series of fundamental questions about the nature of art and aesthetic value The book s 12 chapters explore three questions What makes something a work of art How should we experience art to get the most out of it Once we understand art how should we evaluate whether it is good or bad Philosophical theory is illustrated with concrete examples the paintings of Frida Kahlo the music of Johann Sebastian Bach the masks of the Nso people and many others Classic questions are balanced with cutting edge challenges such as Linda Nochlin s work on the exclusion of women from the artistic canon The Art Experience presupposes no prior knowledge of philosophy or art and it will be of interest to any reader seeking an accessible and engaging introduction to this field Along the way readers learn how philosophical theories can affect our real world experiences with painting music theater and many other art forms Key Features Accessible for any college student assumes no knowledge of philosophy art theory or any artistic medium Organizes topics conceptually rather than historically allowing students to more easily grasp the core issues themselves rather than tracing their historical evolution Offers readers a large number of contemporary examples and a consistent focus on the way theory can affect people s real world experiences with art Explores questions about bias for example whether the artistic canon has excluded some groups unfairly and whether definitions of art are Western biased The State of Art Criticism James Elkins, Michael

Newman, 2007-11-13 Art criticism is spurned by universities but widely produced and read It is seldom theorized and its history has hardly been investigated The State of Art Criticism presents an international conversation among art historians and critics that considers the relation between criticism and art history and poses the question of whether criticism may become a university subject Contributors include Dave Hickey James Panero Stephen Melville Lynne Cook Michael Newman Whitney Davis Irit Rogoff Guy Brett and Boris Groys Art Criticism and Education Theodore F. Wolff, George

Geaghan, 1997 In this concluding volume of the series Disciplines in Art Education an author art critic and an art educator discuss the place of the art criticism in the classroom Pluralistic Approaches to Art Criticism Douglas Emerson

Blandy, Kristin G. Congdon, 1991 Contributors to this anthology analyze the contemporary academic methods for critiquing art and suggest new ways that might further our understandings of art created by myriad individuals and groups The essays give readers further insight into a diverse range of artistic creators often overlooked in art world studies Understanding
