

H-441 THOMAS PAINE'S COMMON SENSE

"... in the following pages I offer nothing more than simple facts, plain arguments, and common sense..."

I challenge the warmest advocate for reconciliation to show a single advantage upon this side of the argument that does not drop by being connected with Great Britain.

The injuries and disadvantages which accrue by that connection (with Great Britain) are without number, and our duty to ourselves as freemen, as well as to ourselves, instructs us to renounce that alliance. Any submission to, or dependence on Great Britain, tends directly to involve this Continent in European wars and contests, and puts us at variance with nations who would otherwise treat our liberties, and against whom we have neither anger nor complaint...

Small islands, incapable of protecting themselves, are the proper objects for kingdoms to take under their care: but there is something very absurd in supposing a continent to be perpetually governed by an island. . . . No dependence means no more than this: whether we shall make our own laws or whether the King, the British army, which this continent rules, or the Navy, shall rule. There shall be no more but such as I like...

Everything that is right or reasonable pleads for independence. The blood of the slain; the weeping voice of nature; cries, 'TIS TIME TO PART...' "
