Bromyard Minster Manor And Town:

The Living Stream James Rattue, 2001 This is the first general history of wells and their religious and cultural associations The author begins in ancient times exploring the archetypal motifs present in the cult of water He then goes on to trace the development of holy wells in England Bromyard Phyllis Williams, 1987 Region and Place Brian K Roberts, Stuart Wrathmell, 2014-06-15 Using the data presented in their companion volume An Atlas of Rural Settlement in England 2000 the authors offer preliminary explorations of some of the patterns revealed by comparing their new maps with the distribution of other types of landscape elements archaeological sites and building styles These two studies represent the culmination of a decade of research for English Heritage's Monuments Protection programme The Atlas defines the varied regional character of England's rural settlement and the former distribution of cleared land wooded land and open pastures a quilt with origins dating from one or two thousand years ago or more This volume explores some of the complex interactions and negotiations between the physical and cultural factors that underlie both national patterns and local and regional contrasts The Story of Herefordshire's Hospitals Charles Renton, 1999 A Survey of Historic Parks & Gardens in Herefordshire David Whitehead, 2001 Thomas Farnolls Pritchard of Shrewsbury Julia Ionides, 1999 Zawiera facsimile The Drawing Book Thomasa Farnolls a Pritcharda Bromyard: a Local History Joseph Gordon Hillaby, 1970 The present volume is the result of a four year period of collaboration between the Bromyard and District Local History Society and the University of Birmingham Department of Extra Mural Studies and the Workers Educational Association The Local Historian, 1989 The Folklore of Hereford & Worcester Roy Palmer, 1992 Religion, Community and Territory Stephen James Yeates, 2006 These volumes examine what is known about the development of religion in the area of the Severn Valley and the adjacent hills from the late Bronze Age to the foundation of the minsters in the early medieval period Roman sources attribute the area to the tribal group the Dobunni while in the Anglo Saxon period it is attributed to the Hwicce The relationship and possible commonality between the two peoples and their territory will be explored here together with any relationship which may appertain between religious sites and the natural world topography geology and hydrology New types of religious site will be encountered and defined and an attempt made to associate these both with nature and with social actions The second part of the survey is concerned with the association of religion community and territory and consequently deals with the ways in which these aspects were interrelated A framework is proposed for explaining the long term development of communities in the region from late prehistory into the historical period An important discovery has been the identification of a goddess associated with a sacred vessel shown in a number of Roman reliefs who seems to be a territorial deity directly associated with the Dobunni Aspects of her cult can be recognised in the Iron Age and even in the early medieval periods It is apparent on so many levels that there was no opposition between the deification of the natural world and the use of deities as representations of community but that they were in reality two aspects of the same paradigm

The divinities of the pre Christian religion in the region were not expunged at once with the advent of Christianity but continue to survive in genealogies folk tradition and myth The strong implication of my thesis is that the Dobunni and the Hwicce are in fact the same people This volume is part of a three volume set ISBN 9781407359373 Volume I ISBN 9781407359380 Volume II ISBN 9781407359397 Volume III ISBN 9781841717456 Volume set
