| Individual Therapy          | Talk therapy is a common tool throughout the healing process. Often, it may start with a higher frequency (e.g., 2x per week if in crisis) and vary in frequency thereafter. A therapist will help you determine what's going on with your well-being, equip you with tools to help manage how you feel and behave and work with you to create a plan based on your goals. |
| Psychiatric Hospitalization | If in a severe crisis where suicide is contemplated, it may make sense to be admitted for 24/7 psychiatric care until stabilized. You will have a team of trained professionals taking care of you 24/7 to ensure your safety until appropriate next steps are determined.                                                                                                 |
| Medication                  | Medication may be necessary, either short-term or long-term. It's most effective when combined with other healing modalities and lifestyle changes. You may be prescribed by your primary care physician or a psychiatrist. Your therapist will refer you to another professional that specializes in medication.                                                          |
| Dissociatives (Ketamine)    | In the past two decades, subanaesthetic doses of ketamine have been demonstrated to have rapid and sustained antidepressant effects, and accumulating research has demonstrated ketamine's therapeutic effects for various psychiatric conditions.                                                                                                                         |
| Support Group               | A support group may be family, friends, 1-800 hotlines, or an anonymous group like a 12-step program. No pill can replace the value of direct human connection. We each need to find a tribe of people we can connect with during our healing journey for support and learning.                                                                                            |
