Beginning Beyond North:

The Early Upper Paleolithic beyond Western Europe P. Jeffrey Brantingham, Steven L. Kuhn, Kristopher W. Kerry, 2004-06-02 This volume brings together prominent archaeologists working in areas outside Western Europe to discuss the most recent evidence for the origins of the early Upper Paleolithic and its relationship to the origin of modern humans. With a wealth of primary data from archaeological sites and regions that have never before been published and discussions of materials from difficult to find sources, the collection urges readers to reconsider the process of modern human behavioral origins. Archaeological evidence continues to play a critical role in debates over the origins of anatomically modern humans. The appearance of novel Upper Paleolithic technologies, new patterns of land use, expanded social networks, and the emergence of complex forms of symbolic communication point to a behavioral revolution beginning sometime around 45,000 years ago. Until recently, most of the available evidence for this revolution derived from Western European archaeological contexts that suggested an abrupt replacement of Mousterian Middle Paleolithic with Aurignacian Upper Paleolithic adaptations. In the absence of fossil association, the behavioral transition was thought to reflect the biological replacement of archaic hominid populations by intrusive modern humans. The contributors present new archaeological evidence that tells a very different story. The Middle Upper Paleolithic transitions in areas as diverse as the Levant, Eastern Central Europe, and Central and Eastern Asia are characterized both by substantial behavioral continuity over the period 45,000–25,000 years ago and by a mosaic-like pattern of shifting adaptations. Together, these essays will enliven and enrich the discussion of the shift from archaic to modern behavioral adaptations. Contributors: O. Bar-Yosef, A. Belfer-Cohen, R. L. Bettinger, P. J. Vishnyatsky. Identity Formation and Diversity in the Early Medieval Baltic and Beyond, 2017-01-05 In Identity Formation and Diversity in the Early Medieval Baltic and Beyond, the Viking World in the East is made more heterogeneous. Baltic Finnic groups, Balts, and Sami are integrated into the history dominated by Scandinavians and Slavs. Interaction in the region between Eastern Middle Sweden, Finland, Estonia, and North Western Russia is set against varied cultural expressions of identities. Ten scholars approach the topic from different angles with case studies on the roots of diversity: burials with horses at Staraya Ladoga as a nodal point of long-distance routes; Rus warrior identities; early Eastern Christianity; interaction between the Baltic Finns and the Svear; the first phases of Rus dominion; the distribution of Carolingian swords and Dirhams in the Baltic region. Contributors are Johan Callmer, Ingrid Gustin, Charlotte Hedenstierna Jonson, Valter Lang, John Howard Lind, Marika Mägi, Mats Roslund, Sören Sindbaek, Anne Stalsberg, and Tuukka Talvio.

Colonial Objects in Early Modern Sweden and Beyond Mårten Snickare, 2025-10-01 An elaborately crafted and decorated tomahawk from somewhere along the North American east coast how did it end up in the royal collections in Stockholm in the late seventeenth century What does it say about the Swedish kingdom's colonial ambitions and desires What questions does it raise from its present place in a display cabinet in the Museum of Ethnography in Stockholm Colonial Objects in Early Modern Sweden and Beyond is about the tomahawk and other objects like it acquired in colonial contact zones and displayed by Swedish elites in the seventeenth century Its first part situates the objects in two distinct but related spaces the expanding space of the colonial world and the exclusive space of the Kunstkammer The second part traces the objects physical and epistemological transfer from the Kunstkammer to the modern museum system In the final part colonial objects are considered at the centre of a heated debate over the present state of museums and their possible futures
