Thirty-five short years and presto the newborn art of telephony is full-grown. Three million telephones are now scattered abroad in foreign countries and seven millions are massed here in the land of its birth. So entirely has the telephone outgrown the ridicule with which as many people can well remember it was first received that it is now in most places taken for granted as though it were a part of the natural phenomena of this planet. It has so marvellously extended the facilities of conversation that art in which a man has all mankind for competitors that it is now an indispensable help to whoever would live the convenient life. The disadvantage of being deaf and dumb to all absent persons which was universal in pre-telephonic days has now happily been overcome and I hope that this story of how and by whom it was done will be a welcome addition to American libraries. The History of the Telephone Herbert Newton Casson, 1913 The History of the Telephone Herbert Newton Casson, 2025-08-23 Reproduction of the original.
