Behind The Border:

Border and Behind-the-Border Trade Barriers and Country Exports Azim M. Sadikov, 2007-12 How do signatures required for exporting and business registration procedures affect the volume and composition of country's exports To answer this question I develop a model where a country can export two types of products differentiated and homogeneous I show that export signatures and registration procedures reduce overall exports by increasing transaction costs The impact however varies across goods according to the product's degree of differentiation the lack of price data on differentiated products due to their heterogeneity makes them more sensitive to export signatures Regressions show that each extra signature exporters have to collect before a shipment can take place reduces aggregate exports by 4.2 percent The impact is large equivalent to raising importer's tariff by 5 percentage points Furthermore each signature lowers exports of differentiated products by 4.5 percent more than exports of homogeneous goods I find evidence that business registration procedures affect exports of differentiated products only Behind-the-Border Policies Joseph Francois, Bernard Hoekman, 2019-11-07 Provides a contemporary overview of key issues related to non tariff trade policy measures and domestic regulation In Search of Europe's Borders Kees Groenendijk, Elspeth Guild, Paul Minderhoud, 2021-12-28 Borders define territories within which identities and order are described and delineated The triptych of identities borders and orders is central to understanding the nature of sovereignty and the relations between countries Nowhere is this more apparent than in the European Union The changing definition and placement of the border is one of the most striking features of the recent transformations of the Union The definition of what a border is and where it is for persons has moved out of the territory of national sovereignty and has become the preserve in law of the European Community The enlargement of the European Union towards the countries of Central and Eastern Europe has created new challenges for the concept of borders in the EU This volume examines the extent of the Community power and the legal meaning of the EU's borders as well as the ways to control or not the movement of persons across borders It considers the legal texts EC law on visas the Regulations on visas the meaning of borders for persons in Community Law the Schengen acquis and its incorporation into the EC Treaty and where appropriate the TEU national practice and its transformation with the insertion of the private sector's responsibility for the control of borders and judicial control The point of departure is the perspective of the individual who is seeking to cross these borders Border Deaths Paolo Cuttitta, Tamara Last, 2025-10-01 Border deaths are a result of dynamics involving diverse actors and can be interpreted and represented in various ways Critical voices from civil society including academia hold states responsible for making safe journeys impossible for large parts of the world population Meanwhile policy makers argue that border deaths demonstrate the need for restrictive border policies Statistics are widely misused to support different readings of border deaths However the way data is collected analysed and disseminated remains largely unquestioned Similarly little is known about how bodies are treated and about the different ways in which the dead also including the missing and the unidentified are mourned by familiars and strangers New concepts and perspectives contribute to highlighting the political nature of border deaths and finding ways to move forward The chapters of this collection co authored by researchers and practitioners provide the first interdisciplinary overview of this contested field

Border Cinema Monica Hanna, Rebecca A. Sheehan, 2019-04-15 The rise of digital media and globalization s intensification since the 1990s have significantly refigured global cinema s form and content The coincidence of digitalization and globalization has produced what this book helps to define and describe as a flourishing border cinema whose aesthetics reflect construct intervene in denature and reconfigure geopolitical borders This collection demonstrates how border cinema resists contemporary border fortification processes showing how cinematic media have functioned technologically and aesthetically to engender contemporary shifts in national and individual identities while proposing alternative conceptions of these identities to those promulgated by the often restrictive current political rhetoric and ideologies that represent a backlash to globalization
