

Despite the fact the Beethoven's project was a fictitious or utopian project to the majority, it gradually gained popularity and acceptance in the musical arena as the societies yearned for better and improved music (Painter 26). And since the symphony represented an ideal concept to the human beings, it therefore heavily expressed the strengths and experiences of Beethoven. The symphonic style also enhanced the proper coordination of different voices between the musicians. This is because it greatly reduced tonal conflicts as the voices are vividly differentiated. This character emotionalized the symphony making it like the listener's own.

The importance of the ninth Beethoven's symphony

The symphony has made it possible to emotionalize a musical piece both in the thoughts of personal individuals and strangers. The same has also been translated to the crowds as the symphony is performed. The performance of symphony is banded together with the instrumentals in order to produce a heroic self on the stage. This quality made the symphony more acceptable and appealing to the listeners and the crowd in the case of stage performances. Beethoven's symphony, therefore, united the extreme stand in the individual's lives regardless of whether private or public.

Beethoven's symphony translation to suit the current generation

It was also expected that more narrative templates could follow Beethoven's heroic writings as technology and experiences changed with time. More emotionalized melodies could be established with the new musical instruments invented. With the newly invented musical instruments, the symphony clarity and quality are enhanced. This has led to the increase of the symphony's listeners in the current generation. The sweet, emotional, and experiential tones have also contributed to quality improvement (Pasler 395). The slow movement and dancing quality has made the symphony be loved by the elderly listeners. This is because the music does not involve its listeners and dancers in a rigorous body movement as they seek to follow the musical tunes and melodies.

There has also been a change in the symphony's program all of which were aimed at establishing more quality music. Among the changes made were the symphony tempo, the conductors in this case tend to make the music more slowly and grandly than the original one (Barry 209). In the past few decades, there has been some emergence of historically informed performances which seek to improve and adjust
