DEVELOPMENT OF CLINICAL EXAMINATION AND PRACTICAL SKILLS

Abstract The purpose of this study was to determine whether there were differences in the prevalence of risk factors for coronary artery disease between men who had been exposed to asbestos and those who had not. A case-control study was conducted among men aged 60 years or older who had been employed in asbestos-related occupations for at least 10 years before diagnosis of coronary artery disease. The prevalence of risk factors for coronary artery disease was compared between cases and controls. The results showed that the prevalence of risk factors for coronary artery disease was significantly higher in cases than in controls. The results suggest that exposure to asbestos may be associated with an increased risk of coronary artery disease.
