Fingerprinting the Iron Age: Approaches to identity in the European Iron Age Cătălin Nicolae Popa,Simon Stoddart,2014-09-30

Archaeology has long dealt with issues of identity and especially with ethnicity with modern approaches emphasising dynamic and fluid social construction The archaeology of the Iron Age in particular has engendered much debate on the topic of ethnicity fuelled by the first availability of written sources alongside the archaeological evidence which has led many researchers to associate the features they excavate with populations named by Greek or Latin writers Some archaeological traditions have had their entire structure built around notions of ethnicity around the relationships existing between large groups of people conceived together as forming unitary ethnic units On the other hand partly influenced by anthropological studies other scholars have written forcefully against Iron Age ethnic constructions such as the Celts The 24 contributions to this volume focus on the south east Europe where the Iron Age has until recently been populated with numerous ethnic groups with which specific material culture forms have been associated The first section is devoted to the core geographical area of south east Europe Bulgaria Croatia Romania Serbia and Slovenia as well as Albania and the Former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia The following three sections allow comparison with regions further to the west and the south west with contributions on central and western Europe the British Isles and the Italian peninsula The volume concludes with four papers which provide more synthetic statements that cut across geographical boundaries the final contributions bringing together some of the key themes of the volume The wide array of approaches to identity presented here reflects the continuing debate on how to integrate material culture protohistoric evidence largely classical authors looking in on first millennium BC societies and the impact of recent nationalistic agendas

The Archaeology and Ethnohistory of Araucanian Resilience Jacob J. Sauer, 2014-09-13 This volume examines the processes and patterns of Araucanian cultural development and resistance to foreign influences and control through the combined study of historical and ethnographic records complemented by archaeological investigation in south central Chile This examination is done through the lens of Resilience Theory which has the potential to offer an interpretive framework for analyzing Araucanian culture through time and space Resilience Theory describes the capacity of a system to absorb disturbances and reorganize while undergoing change so as to still retain the same function The Araucanians incorporated certain Spanish material culture into their own rejected others and strategically restructured aspects of their political economic social and ideological institutions in order to remain independent for over 350 years

An Archaeology of Nineteenth-Century Consumer Behavior in Melbourne, Australia, and Buenos Aires, Argentina Pamela Ricardi, 2019-07-23 This book compares consumer behavior in two nineteenth century peripheral cities Melbourne Australia and Buenos Aires Argentina It provides an analysis of domestic archaeological assemblages from two inner city working class neighborhood sites that were largely populated by recently arrived immigrants The book also uses primary historical documents to assess the place of these cities within global trade networks and explores the types of goods arriving into each city By comparing the assemblages and archival data it is possible to explore the role of choice ethnicity and class on consumer behavior This approach is significant as it provides an archaeological assessment of consumer behavior which crosses socio political divides comparing a site within a British colony to a site in a former Spanish colony in South America As two geographically politically and ethnically distinct cities it was expected that archaeological and archival data would reveal substantial variation In reality differences although noted were small Broad similarities point to the far reaching impact of colonialism and consumerism and widespread interconnectedness during the nineteenth century This book demonstrates the wealth of information that can be gained from international comparisons that include sites outside the British Empire

The Global Spanish Empire Christine Beaulieu, John G. Douglass, 2020-05-05 The Spanish Empire was a complex web of places and peoples Through an expansive range of essays that look at Africa the Americas Asia the Caribbean and the Pacific this volume brings a broad range of regions into conversation The contributors focus on nuanced comparative exploration of the processes and practices of creating maintaining and transforming cultural place making within pluralistic Spanish colonial communities The Global Spanish Empire argues that patterned variability is necessary in reconstructing Indigenous cultural persistence in colonial settings The volume's eleven case studies include regions often neglected in the archaeology of Spanish colonialism The time span under investigation is extensive as well transcending the entirety of the Spanish Empire from early impacts in West Africa to Texas during the 1800s The contributors examine the making of a social place within a social or physical landscape They discuss the appearance of hybrid material culture the incorporation of foreign goods into local material traditions the continuation of local traditions and archaeological evidence of opportunistic social climbing In some cases these changes in material culture are ways to maintain aspects of traditional culture rather than signifiers of new cultural practices The Global Spanish Empire tackles broad questions about Indigenous cultural persistence pluralism and place making using a global comparative perspective grounded in the shared experience of Spanish colonialism Contributors Stephen Acabado Grace Barretto Tesoro James M Bayman Christine D Beaulieu Christopher R DeCorse Boyd M Dixon John G Douglass William R Fowler Martin Gibbs Corinne L Hofman Hannah G Hoover Stacie M King Kevin Lane Laura Matthew Sandra Mont n Sub as Natalia Moragas Segura Michelle M Pigott Christopher B Rodning David Roe Roberto Valc rcel Rojas Steve A Tomka Jorge Ulloa Hung Juliet Wiersema
