Archaeology Society Reconstructing:

Reconstructing the Society of Ancient Israel Paula M. McNutt, 1999-01-01 In this volume Paula McNutt provides a synthesis of recent research on the nature and development of the society of ancient Israel Focusing on Israelite history from the tribal period through the time of Persian domination McNutt employs a social scientific perspective to examine recent reconstructions of the social and cultural contexts that nurtured the literature of the Hebrew Bible She also offers a helpful overview of the components and dynamics of ancient Israelite society By investigating the intricate social processes that sustained the society of ancient Israel McNutt enables the reader to discern the forces at work during key periods of transition and transformation in early Israelite history

Reconstructing Past Monastic Life: Volume 1: Bioarchaeology, Life and Death Lluís Lloveras, Carme Rissech, Jordi Nadal, Philip Banks, 2025-07-30 Explores health and lifeways in monastic communities focusing on palaeopathological insights into well being disabilities and burial practices across various periods Monasticism is a form of religious life in which participants renounce worldly activities to dedicate themselves primarily to spiritual matters living in small communities subject to a set of rules and isolated from the secular world Christian monasticism which originated at the end of the 3rd century in Egypt and North Africa spread to different parts of Europe in the 6th century However it was not until the Middle Ages that monastic communities became one of the most powerful institutions in Europe Monasteries and convents played a very important role not only as centers of spirituality but also as focal points of economic technological and cultural activity This multiplicity of activities carried out alongside their religious social and political roles make monasteries spaces that can be studied from very different perspectives and that unfailingly provide essential information about our history This first of two titles originates from an international conference that took place in Barcelona in January 2024 which sought to examine different aspects related to monastic life in the past and to promote and disseminate the results obtained in the latest studies undertaken within the framework of monastic complexes and their environments These include contributions and multidisciplinary studies from archaeological bioanthropological and or documentary perspectives Specialists from different disciplines present developments on the topic of monasticism from different fields of study such as zooarchaeology bioanthropology palaeopathology archaeology history documentary disciplines archives cultural heritage etc

Volume 1 concentrates on health and lifeways within monastic communities focusing on palaeopathological information providing insights into physical well being and in particular the presence and significance of disabled individuals and evidence for long term health and dental issues A variety of scientific methods of analysis are applied to cemetery populations from monasteries and nunneries of different periods to examine both causes of and contributions to the death of individuals the composition of communities and the treatment of the dead Studies of assemblages of faunal remains from monastic complexes consider how faunal analysis can help interpret the role of domestic species Reconstructing

Biblical Dead Sea Scrolls Edward Herbert, 2018-11-26 The first part of the book develops a battery of scientifically based tools to aid the reconstruction of biblical Dead Sea Scrolls which when applied together substantially improve the quality of reconstruction attainable The focus then moves to the important non masoretic but fragmentary biblical scroll 4QSama for which sixty two new fragment identifications and an analysis of the character of the scroll are presented Based upon this a detailed reconstruction of the 4QSama fragments of 2 Samuel is undertaken revealing 55% more deviations from the Masoretic text than had previously been identified The effectiveness of the new method is thus demonstrated Data concerning the support of key Hebrew and Greek witnesses provides a valuable foundation for the study of the history and development of the biblical text Reconstructing a Maritime Past Matthew Harpster, 2022-12-30 Reconstructing a Maritime Past argues that rather than applying geo ethnic labels to shipwrecks to describe Greek or Roman seafaring a more intriguing alternative emphasizes a maritime culture s valorization of the Mediterranean Sea Doing so creates new questions and research agendas to understand the past human relationship with the sea This study makes this argument in three sections Chapters 1 and 2 contrasting intellectual histories of maritime archaeological interpretive approaches common in Northern Europe and the Mediterranean propose that the former perspective which embodies contemporary and fluid perceptions of culture is a better theoretical framework for future research Chapters 3 5 re interpret the corpus of submerged sites in the Mediterranean Sea with this approach arguing that this dataset does not represent Phoenician Muslim or Byzantine seafaring but the practices of a maritime culture Key to this section is the author s method that utilizes superimposed polygons to model patterns of maritime activity generating centennial results at different scales Having built the models of a maritime culture s valorization of the Mediterranean Sea Chapter 6 contains the first comparisons of these models to other datasets questioning the relevance of textual media to understand maritime activity while finding closer analogues with other archaeological corpora By deconstructing interpretive methods in maritime archaeology offering a new synthesizing interpretive approach that is scalable and decoupled from past perceptions and critically examining the applicability of various media to illuminate the past maritime experience this book will appeal to scholars at various stages of their careers Reconstructing Complex Societies Charlotte B. Moore, 1978 Arkansas Archaeology Robert C.

Mainfort, Marvin D. Jeter, Dan F. Morse, Phyllis A. Morse, 1999-11-01 Arkansas has long been recognized as a state with a rich archaeological heritage that is unsurpassed in North America The Toltec Mounds were made famous by the Smithsonian's research at the turn of the century The Sloan site dated to 8500 B C is the oldest documented burial ground in the New World The alluvial plain of the central Mississippi River valley supported perhaps the greatest prehistoric urban population And the Parkin site has yielded important information about the de Soto incursion into the continent This festschrift recognizes the contributions made in researching this varied heritage by Dan and Phyllis Morse from the inception of the Arkansas Archeological Survey in 1967 to their retirement in 1997 The essays were prepared by thirteen of their colleagues recognized experts in archaeology and related fields and represent state of the art knowledge about Arkansas's archaeology The topics range broadly from prehistoric environments and regional syntheses to specialized studies of specific culture periods and historical archaeology Paul and Hazel Delcourt and Roger Saucier provide a chapter that will serve as a standard reference for many years on Holocene environments Chris Gillam's contribution demonstrates the utility of Geographic Information Systems in broad scale pattern analysis Robert Mainfort uses large collections of ceramics to show that traditional methods for grouping Late Mississippian sites are insufficient Michael Hoffman introduces a new line of evidence from old newspaper accounts and Frank Schambach in reinterpreting the spectacular Spiro site in eastern Oklahoma gives us a powerful classic example of archaeological and ethnohistoric interpretation This volume will of course be of great interest to professional archaeologists and anthropologists but the essays are also accessible to students amateur archaeologists historians and enthusiastic general readers As the new millennium dawns this book celebrates the legacy of two very distinguished careers in archaeology and heralds the proliferation of innovative new approaches and techniques for the continuing study of Arkansas's prehistoric peoples Jesus, A Visual History Donald L. Brake, 2014-11-25 Jesus A Visual History offers a unique vantage point into Jesus story introducing readers to the historical context of Gospel accounts Its easy reading style thorough research and visual presentation will leave readers with a greater and lasting appreciation for Jesus the Messiah Maps and charts summarize and visualize the events of Jesus life along with full color photos and 19th century black and white images of the modern sites where biblical events took place In addition original artwork researched for accuracy illuminates Jesus life and work This engaging visually driven book will be valued by readers as an accessible yet accurate invitation to better understand both the Holy Land and the Savior who walked it Discovering Past Behavior Paul Grebinger, 1978 First Published in 1978 Routledge is an imprint of Taylor Francis an informa company Archaeology and Society; Reconstructing the Prehistoric Past Grahame Clark, 2021-09-09 This work has been selected by scholars as being culturally important and is part of the knowledge base of civilization as we know it This work is in the public domain in the United States of America and possibly other nations Within the United States you may freely copy and distribute this work as no entity individual or corporate has a copyright on the body of the work Scholars believe and we
