

An aerial photograph of a city grid, likely New York City, showing a dense pattern of streets and buildings. A single building, located in the upper right quadrant, is highlighted in a vibrant red color, contrasting with the muted tones of the surrounding urban landscape. The grid pattern is consistent throughout the image, with the red building standing out as a focal point.

Architecture Studio Rites De Passage:

Architecture, Ritual Practice and Co-determination in the Swedish Office Dennis Doxtater, 2024-11-07 Originally published in 1994 as part of the Ethnoscapes Current Challenges in the Environmental Social Sciences series reissued now with a new series introduction Architecture Ritual Practice and Co determination in the Swedish Office is a case study of Swedish office buildings and examines how they have been influenced by spatial aspects of traditional culture in Scandinavia It suggests a theoretical framework for architecture by casting the ritual form of Swedish offices into three distinct modes of expression

Architecture Dana Cuff, 1992 Dana Cuff delves into the architect's everyday world in Architecture to uncover an intricate social art of design resulting in a new portrait of the profession that sheds light on what it means to become an architect

In the Company of Men James Gruber, Phoebe Morgan, 2005 Despite over twenty years of discussion and study sexual harassment remains a significant problem in the workplace Current research focusing on organizational policy and women's career development often ignores the reality of male dominance prevalent in areas such as the military the police and firefighting occupations that see not only more frequent but also more severe harassment even sexual assault Meanwhile new evidence points to the fact that men are largely responsible not only for the harassment of women but for most harassment of other men as well This landmark collection of original essays investigates the links between male dominance and sexual harassment in light of new research and more complex understandings of masculinity Treated not merely as a matter of worker sex ratios but as an inherent element of workplace culture male dominance is observed from a variety of quantitative and qualitative approaches ranging from criminology and sociology to psychology and gender studies Integrating both men's and women's viewpoints research across occupational groups and studies from both the United States and Europe the chapters provide an invaluable international perspective into two inextricably intertwined problems rooted in cultural constructions of gender and institutional roles and processes

Curating Architecture and the City Sarah Chaplin, Alexandra Stara, 2009-04-16 Striking a balance between theoretical investigations and case studies this book addresses the collection representation and exhibition of architecture and the built environment International in scope this collection investigates curation architecture and the city across the world opening up new possibilities for exploring the urban fabric

Progressive Architecture, 1991

The Architect's Suicide R.M. Beckley, 2014-05-22 The Architect's Suicide thoughtfully combines fiction with fact in this sometimes hallucinatory account It brings readers deep inside the convoluted life and mysterious disappearance of an American architect seeking fame and recognition during an era when heroism appears to have died An architectural critic endeavors to understand the disappearance of Robert A Michael architect and his presumed suicide In his quest recorded here the critic sheds light on the world of architectural practice that so disappointed this architect As part of his research the critic interviews members of Robert's family business associates clients and colleagues The narratives the critic assembles reveal the personal and professional ambitions and despair that may have contributed to the architect's fate Robert A. Michael in his youth read Ayn Rand's influential book The Fountainhead. Like other young men he was inspired by Rand to pursue a career in architecture, choosing architecture over art as his career goal. He believed in Rand's modernist idea of the autonomous man of independent mindedness and integrity. Robert, however, was continually disappointed as he found the heroic role of the architect promoted by Rand to be elusive. Conflicts arose between his aesthetic ideals and the realities of architectural practice. The critic speculates that Robert's sobering disappearance signifies the end of the modern era for architects and their profession as promoted by Rand and the heroes of architecture's modern movement.

The Oxford Conference Susan Roaf, Andrew Baird, 2008. 50 years after the first Oxford Conference on Architectural Education, the 2008 conference brought together over 500 people from 42 countries to share best practice, discuss how, when, where, and why we teach architecture now and in the future. World Architecture, 1996.

Priestly Resistance to the Early Reformation in Germany Jourden Travis Moger, 2015-10-06. Moger's study explores the personal experience of those who found themselves on the losing side of the Reformation. Using the private diary of Catholic priest Wolfgang K. Nigstein, Moger discusses the early years of Protestantism and its effects on the lives of German Catholics.

Model Perspectives: Structure, Architecture and Culture Mark R. Cruvellier, Bjorn N. Sandaker, Luben Dimcheff, 2017-09-25. This book contains a unique collection of various perspectives on the relationship between structures and the forms and spaces of architecture. As such, it provides students and professionals alike with an essential sourcebook that can be mined for visual inspiration as well as for textually rich and authoritative insight into the links between structure, architecture, and cultural context. The chapters address fundamental structural elements and systems: columns, walls, beams, trusses, frames, tensile structures, arches, domes, and shells. Each chapter is subdivided into two parts. The essays introduce the chapters with the reprinting of a curated set of essays and excerpts by various authors that uniquely address how particular structural elements or systems relate in essential fashion to architectural design concepts. The model studies physical models of the overall structural systems of several notable contemporary buildings from Europe, North and South America, Africa, and Asia are illustrated with large photographs, detail close-ups, and views of their external forms and internal spaces that establish the exceptional qualities of these projects in connecting structural form to architectural design objectives. Mosaic layouts complete the chapters with a collection of photographs of yet more models whose particular details and unique features serve to extend the visual repertoire of the structural type being considered. The combination, juxtaposition, and mutual positive reinforcement of these two collections, one largely textual and the other image-based, provides the reader with unique and multifaceted insights into how structural forms and systems can be related to architectural design intentions. Conveyed by a strong and deliberate graphical design format, this assembly of materials gets to the very essence of structures within the context of architecture and will inspire students and practitioners alike to make strategic design decisions for their own projects.

Embracing the Song of Term: An Mental Symphony within Architecture Studio Rites De Passage

In a world used by screens and the ceaseless chatter of immediate connection, the melodic splendor and mental symphony developed by the prepared word usually disappear in to the backdrop, eclipsed by the constant noise and interruptions that permeate our lives.
