Sex and Buildings Richard J. Williams, 2013-07-15 Massive modern skyscrapers obelisks towers all are structures that thanks to their phallic shape are often associated with sex But other buildings are more subtly connected as they provide the frameworks for our sexual lives and act as reminders of our sexual memories This relationship between sex and buildings mattered more than ever in the United States and Europe during the turbulent twentieth century when a culture of unprecedented sexual frankness and tolerance emerged and came to dominate many aspects of public life Part architectural history part cultural history and part travelogue Sex and Buildings explores how progressive sexual attitudes manifest themselves in architecture asking what progressive sexuality might look like architecturally and exploring the successes and failures of buildings attempts to reflect it In search of structures that reflect the sexual mores of their inhabitants Richard J Williams visits modernist buildings in Southern California the Westin Bonaventure Hotel the Playboy Mansion in Chicago the Seagram in New York communes from the 1960s and more A fascinating and often funny look at a period of extraordinary social change coupled with aesthetic invention Sex and Buildings will change the way we look at the buildings around us

Building Sex Aaron Betsky, 1995. Buildings have always been an expression of human sexuality. In this book, architecture critic and curator Aaron Betsky takes a look at the man-made world and concludes that it is just that, made by men and not women. The structure of buildings and the layout of cities in the modern world have almost always been determined by men and the abstract and alien order of grids and columns that has resulted in imprisoning us in a way of living based on repression and in some cases oppression. By contrast, it is women who create the interior spaces within these man-created environments. Comfortable, beautiful, seductive, and logical, these interiors act as areas of escape, self-definition, and sometimes even revelation. Drawing on a wide range of architectural examples from African mud huts to modern apartment complexes, Betsky explores what effects this division of architectural labor has had on our sensibilities and indeed on how we relate to one another as men and women. He believes that although it has always been thus, we do not have to live within this dichotomy between the exterior and the interior, the made and the lived, the masculine and the feminine forever. It is possible, says Betsky, to create spaces of liberation, spaces in which we can re-construct our selves and our world.

Building a New Community Psychology of Mental Health Carl Walker, Angie Hart, Paul Hanna, 2017-03-31. This book provides a much-needed account of informal community-based approaches to working with mental distress. It starts from the premise that contemporary mainstream psychiatry and psychology struggle to capture how distress results from complex embodied arrays of social experiences that are embedded within specific historical, cultural, political, and economic settings. The authors challenge mainstream understandings of mental health that position a naive public in need of mental health literacy. Instead, it is clear that a considerable amount of invaluable mental distress work is undertaken in spaces in our communities that are not understood as mental health treatments. This book represents one of the first attempts to position these kinds of spaces at the center of how we understand and address problems of mental distress and suffering. The chapters draw on case studies from the UK and abroad to point toward an exciting new paradigm based on informal community and socially oriented approaches to mental health. Written in an unusually accessible and engaging style, this book will appeal to social science students, academics, practitioners, and policy makers interested in community and social approaches to mental health.

Third Sector Organizations in Sex Work and Prostitution Isabel Crowhurst, Susan Dewey, Chimaraoke Izugbara, 2021-03-30. Third Sector Organizations in Sex Work and Prostitution is about sex work and prostitution, third sector organizations, TSOs, non-governmental and non-profit organizations that provide support services to and advocate for the well-being of people operating in the sex industries.
