A Life For Africa The Story Of Bram Fischer:

A Life for Africa Naomi Mitchison, 2021-07-30 Naomi Mitchison's account of the life and work of the Afrikaner lawyer and political activist Bram Fischer 1908-1975 was first published in 1973 two years before his death. She writes from the perspective of her own experience gained during regular visits and a commitment to Southern Africa, particularly Botswana from the 1960s onwards, to present the key elements and actors in the story of the country and the peoples of South Africa. Above all of Bram Fischer who gave up a life of privilege to oppose professionally and underground the Government's monstrous policy of apartheid.

The Origins of Non-Racialism David Everatt, 2009-06-01 How did South Africa embrace non-racialism? After centuries of white domination and decades of increasingly savage repression, freedom came to South Africa far later than elsewhere in the continent and yet was marked by a commitment to non-racialism. Nelson Mandela's Cabinet and government were made up of women and men of all races and many spoke of the birth of a new Rainbow Nation. How did this come about? How did an African nationalist liberation movement resisting apartheid, a universally denounced violent expression of white supremacy, open its doors to other races and whites in particular? And what did non-racialism mean? This is the real miracle of South Africa that at the height of white supremacy and repression, black and white democrats in their different organisations, coming from vastly different backgrounds and traditions, agreed on one thing: that the future for South Africa would be non-racial.

Marxism's Retreat from Africa (RLE Marxism) Arnold Hughes, 2015-04-24 The collapse of Marxism in much of the Third World as well as Europe was so sudden and spectacular that it is hard to believe that in the space of seven years. The Journal of Communist Studies could bring out special issues both on the creation of Military Marxist Regimes in Africa and on their demise and the wider collapse of Marxist governments on the continent. This volume, first published in 1992, derives from a roundtable on the theme of 'The Retreat from Moscow: African and Eastern European Experiences of Disengagement from Marxism' held at the University of Birmingham in September 1991. The conference examined the recent experiences of African countries in transition from Marxism and Marxist-influenced ideologies to an uncertain future based on the market economy and a plural political system.

Nadine Gordimer's Burger's Daughter Judie Newman, 2003-01-09 South African writer Nadine Gordimer won the Nobel Prize in Literature in 1991. Her seventh novel, Burger's Daughter, focuses upon the daughter of a white communist Afrikaner hero. Based partly on fact, successively banned and unbanned by the South African authorities, the novel has also become something of a test case for feminist critics of Gordimer's writing. This casebook includes an interview with and an essay by Nadine Gordimer on the novel, classic and recent critical essays, an introduction discussing biographical and historical contexts and the literary reception, and a bibliography.
