A History Of Seafaring Based On Underwater Archaeology:

A History of Seafaring Arne Emil Christensen,1972 A History of seafaring George F. Bass,1972 A History of Seafaring George F. Bass,1972 The Protection of the Underwater Cultural Heritage: An Emerging Objective of the Contemporary Law of the Sea Anastasia Strati,2021-09-27 The marine environment is almost ideal for the preservation of artefacts and until relatively recently it also provided complete protection from destruction by man However the aqualung has made most shallow underwater sites accessible leading to widespread plundering Current deep sea bed technology now threatens deep water sites There is a need for immediate international action to preserve the man made environment alongside the natural one The enunciation of legal rules to protect the underwater cultural heritage is a complex issue involving a matrix of interests and laws both international and national Reconstructing a Maritime Past Matthew Harpster,2022-12-30 Reconstructing a Maritime Past argues that rather than applying geo ethnic labels to shipwrecks to describe Greek or Roman seafaring a more intriguing alternative emphasizes a maritime culture s valorization of the Mediterranean Sea Doing so creates new questions and research agendas to understand the past human relationship with the sea This study makes this argument in three sections Chapters 1 and 2 contrasting intellectual histories of maritime archaeological interpretive approaches common in Northern Europe and the Mediterranean propose that the former perspective which embodies contemporary and fluid perceptions of culture is a better theoretical framework for future research Chapters 3 5 re interpret the corpus of submerged sites in the Mediterranean Sea with this approach arguing that this dataset does not represent Phoenician Muslim or Byzantine seafaring but the practices of a maritime culture Key to this section is the author s method that utilizes superimposed polygons to model patterns of maritime activity generating centennial results at different scales Having built the models of a maritime culture s valorization of the Mediterranean Sea Chapter 6 contains the first comparisons of these models to other datasets questioning the relevance of textual media to understand maritime activity while finding closer analogues with other archaeological corpora By deconstructing interpretive methods in maritime archaeology offering a new synthesizing interpretive approach that is scalable and decoupled from past perceptions and critically examining the applicability of various media to illuminate the past maritime experience this book will appeal to scholars at various stages of their careers Maritime Studies in the Wake of the Byzantine Shipwreck at Yassiada, Turkey Deborah N Carlson,Justin Leidwanger,Sarah M. Kampbell,2015-03-15 In 2007 a symposium was held at Texas A M University to celebrate the twenty fifth anniversary of Texas A M University Press s publication of the first volume reporting the Yassiada shipwreck site Seventeen papers from that symposium featured in this book broadly illustrate such varied topics as ships and seafaring life maritime trade naval texts commercial cargoes and recent developments in the analysis of the Yassiada ship itself The Protection of the Underwater Cultural Heritage Anastasia Stratē,1995 The marine environment is almost ideal for the preservation of artefacts and until relatively recently it also provided complete protection from destruction by man However the aqualung has made most shallow underwater sites accessible leading to widespread plundering Current deep sea bed technology now threatens deep water sites There is a need for immediate international action to preserve the man made environment alongside the natural one The enunciation of legal rules to protect the underwater cultural heritage is a complex issue involving a matrix of interests and laws both international and national

Seafaring and Mobility in the Late Antique Mediterranean Antti Lampinen, Emilia Mataix Ferrándiz, 2022-07-14 More than any other type of environment with the possible exception of mountains the sea has been understood since antiquity as being immovable to a proverbial degree Yet it was the sea's capacity for movement both literally and figuratively through such emotions as fear hope and pity that formed one of the primary means of conceptualizing its significance in Late Antique societies This volume advances a new and interdisciplinary understanding of what the sea as an environment and the pursuit of seafaring meant in antiquity drawing on a range of literary legal and archaeological evidence to explore the social economic and cultural factors at play The contributions are structured into three thematic parts which move from broad conceptual categories to specific questions of networks and mobility Part One takes a wide view of the Mediterranean as an environment with great metaphorical and symbolic potential Part Two looks at networks of seaborne communication and the role of islands as the characteristic hubs of the Mediterranean Finally Part Three engages with the practicalities of tackling the sea as a challenging environment that needs to be challenged politically legally and for the means of travel A

Maritime Archaeology of Ships J. R. Adams, 2013-12-11 In the last fifty years the investigation of maritime archaeological sites in the sea in the coastal zone and in their interconnecting locales has emerged as one of archaeology's most dynamic and fast developing fields No longer a niche interest maritime archaeology is recognised as having central relevance in the integrated study of the human past Within maritime archaeology the study of watercraft has been understandably prominent and yet their potential is far from exhausted In this book Jon Adams evaluates key episodes of technical change in the ways that ships were conceived designed built used and disposed of As technological puzzles they have long confounded explanation but when viewed in the context of the societies in which they were created mysteries begin to dissolve Shipbuilding is social practice and as one of the most complex artefacts made changes in their technology provide a lens through which to view the ideologies strategies and agency of social change Adams argues that the harnessing of shipbuilding was one of the ways in which medieval society became modern and while the primary case studies are historical he also demonstrates that the relationships between ships and society have key implications for our understanding of prehistory in which seafaring and communication had similarly profound effects on the tide of human affairs NOAA
