McLean, Michael E. Vance, 2008-11-10 Many writers of the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries emphasized the virtues of early rural pioneers and life on the land as a general criticism of what they perceived to be the negative alienating influence of Ontario s rapid urban and industrial expansion Such work often highlighted the difficulties the recent emigrant faced the clearing of forest and the breaking of new ground the isolation and long Canadian winters however they in turn celebrated the progress demonstrated in the pioneer s domination over nature the establishment of thriving communities and the extension of transportation networks William Wye Smith a popular nineteenth century Upper Canadian poet was no exception Smith prepared his Canadian Reminiscences a hand written compilation of anecdotes collected during his lifetime that relate to his experience as journalist clergyman and son of Scottish settlers to provide his own unique perspective of pioneer life This fully annotated version of Smith s unpublished manuscript highlights Smith s unwitting testimony to the social life of the province his relationship to the construction and maintenance of Scottish and Canadian identity as well as his position in literary history Hidden in Plain Sight James Clare

Fuller, 2024-11-19 The Evangelical Missionary Church in Ontario was born out of the Canadian Mennonite church modified by Wesleyan holiness revivalism in the nineteenth century Sam Goudie 1866 1951 from a Scottish and Swiss German Mennonite family in Waterloo County led the Ontario Conference of the Mennonite Brethren in Christ Church through the period of the formation of the Pentecostal movement establishment of a western Canadian conference and the First World War With Goudie's support the rural denomination attempted to evangelize small town Ontario through teams of women preachers with some success until the Depression Goudie also led in the formation of the denominational mission beginning in Nigeria adding missions in India and the Middle East during his presidency He also chaired the Executive Committee of the binational MBiC church for over thirty years This book clarifies the relation of the MBiC to the parent Mennonite Church and corrects some of the prevailing stories of early Pentecostalism in Canada It explores differences between collectivist denominational life in the denomination's first generations shared with other rural holiness Canadian churches and the congregationalist culture of twenty first century evangelical Canadian Christianity Canada: an Encyclopædia of the Country: History of Presbyterianism. Miscellaneous religious annals. Universities and higher education systems. Art, music and sculpture. Militia and military history since 1837 John Castell Hopkins, 1898 And I Will Dwell in Their Midst Etan Diamond, 2014-03-17 Suburbia may not seem like much of a place to pioneer but for young religiously committed Jewish families it's open territory This sentiment expressed in the early 1970s by an Orthodox Jew in suburban Toronto captures the essence of the suburban Orthodox Jewish experience of the late twentieth century Although rarely associated with postwar suburbia Orthodox Jews in metropolitan areas across the United States and Canada have successfully combined suburban lifestyles and the culture of consumerism with a strong sense of religious traditionalism and community cohesion By their very existence in suburbia argues Etan Diamond Orthodox Jewish communities challenge dominant assumptions about society and religious culture in the twentieth century Using the history of Orthodox Jewish suburbanization in Toronto Diamond explores the different components of the North American suburban Orthodox Jewish community sacred spaces synagogues schools kosher homes and social networks In a larger sense though his book tells a story of how traditionalist religious communities have thrived in the most secular of environments In so doing it pushes our current understanding of cities and suburbs and their religious communities in new directions
