

A Little Love

Michael Seilmaier

A Little Love:

The Ballad of Sir Dinadan Gerald Morris, 2003 Young Dinadan has no wish to joust or quest or save damsels in distress or do any of the knightly things expected of him He d rather be a minstrel playing his rebec and writing ballads But he was born to be a knight and knights of course have adventures So after his father forces his knighthood upon him he wanders toward King Arthur s court in the company of a misguided young Welsh lad named Culloch There Dinadan meets Sir Kai and Sir Bedivere and the three find themselves accompanying Culloch on the worst sort of quest Along the way Dinadan writes his own ballads singing of honor bravery loyalty and courtly love and becomes a player in the pathetic love story of Tristram and Iseult He meets the Moorish knight Palomides the clever but often exasperating Lady Brangienne and an elvin musician named Sylvanus along with an unusual collection of recreant knights and dimwitted defenders of chivalry He learns that while minstrels sing of spectacular heroic deeds honor is often found in simpler quieter ways

Forbidden Intimacies

Melanie Heath, 2023-02-21 A poignant account of everyday polygamy and what its regulation reveals about who is viewed as an Other In the past thirty years polygamy has become a flashpoint of conflict as Western governments attempt to regulate certain cultural and religious practices that challenge seemingly central principles of family and justice In Forbidden Intimacies Melanie Heath comparatively investigates the regulation of polygamy in the United States Canada France and Mayotte Drawing on a wealth of ethnographic and archival sources Heath uncovers the ways in which intimacies framed as other and offensive serve to define the very limits of Western tolerance These regulation efforts counterintuitively allow the flourishing of polygamies on the ground The case studies illustrate a continuum of justice in which some groups like white fundamentalist Mormons in the U S organize to fight against the prohibition of their families existence whereas African migrants in France face racialized discrimination in addition to rigid migration policies The matrix of legal and social contexts informed by gender race sexuality and class shapes the everyday experiences of these relationships Heath uses the term labyrinthine love to conceptualize the complex ways individuals negotiate different kinds of relationships ranging from romantic to coercive What unites these families is the secrecy in which they must operate As government intervention erodes their abilities to secure housing welfare work and even protection from abuse Heath exposes the huge variety of intimacies and the power they hold to challenge heteronormative Western ideals of love
