James Fuller, Lawrence Sondhaus, 2007 Written by leading historians and political scientists this collection of essays offers a broad and comprehensive coverage of the role of war in American history Addressing the role of the armed force and attitudes towards it in shaping and defining the United States the first four chapters reflect the perspectives of historians on this central question from the time of the American Revolution to the US wars in Vietnam and Iraq Chapters five and six offer the views of political scientists on the topic one in light of the global systems theory the other from the perspective of domestic opinion and governance The concluding essay is written by historians Fred Anderson and Andrew Cayton whose co authored book The Dominion of War Empire and Liberty in North America 1500 2000 provided the common reading for the symposium which produced these essays America War and Power will be of much interest to students and scholars of US military history US politics and military history and strategy in general A Companion to American Military History James C. Bradford, 2009-11-03 With more than 60 essays A Companion to American Military History presents a comprehensive analysis of the historiography of United States military history from the colonial era to the present Covers the entire spectrum of US history from the Indian and imperial conflicts of the seventeenth century to the battles in Afghanistan and Iraq Features an unprecedented breadth of coverage from eminent military historians and emerging scholars including little studied topics such as the military and music military ethics care of the dead and sports Surveys and evaluates the best scholarship on every important era and topic Summarizes current debates and identifies areas where conflicting interpretations are in need of further study Educating America's Military Joan Johnson-Freese, 2013 This book offers a detailed examination of the professional military education system in the United States from a critical insider's perspective The mission of America's war colleges is to educate senior military officers in both the ways of war and the defence of peace But are these colleges doing the best job possible in carrying out that important mission Military education faces many demands including a lack of preparation by the students uneven quality of the faculty and confusion over the curriculum Many officers attend resident programs at the war colleges programs against the career advice of their leadership despite the fact that they are virtually guaranteed graduation after less than a year of study while others do their best to avoid it entirely As the professional military education system has come under increasing scrutiny and criticism some have even called for closing the war colleges That answer however does not serve the United States well especially in a complex globalized environment where military leaders need the best specialized education to prepare them for their future challenges This volume examines the system that created and supports the perpetuation of this system and why it is imperative that it be fixed Written by a faculty
