Allelopathy in Agroecosystems Ravinder Kumar Kohli, Harminder Pal Singh, Daizy Rani Batish, 2024-12-20 Discover environmentally safe ways to control weeds and pests Until now farmers have had to choose between using expensive herbicides and fertilizers which pollute the water table or watching crop yields drop All too often crop yields dropped anyway despite intensive farming Allelopathy in Agroecosystems offers fresh hope It provides an in depth understanding of allelopathy the mysterious complex biochemical interactions among plants and microbes This little understood phenomenon plays a large role in agriculture for good or ill It can lead to changes in nutrient dynamics vegetation structure and species diversity This comprehensive treatise is the first compendium devoted to explaining and exploring these chemical interactions in agricultural crop systems Allelopathy in Agroecosystems explains how these interactions can make soil sick especially in intensively cropped areas This leads to less growth and lower yield On the other hand it has great potential as an environmentally safe method of weed and pest management The fascinating original research presented here will help you understand the complexities of this invisible yet potent force in agriculture Allelopathy in Agroecosystems examines this interaction as it affects the most important concerns of farmers and agronomists including beneficial interactions between crops weed control using crop residues crop rotation natural herbicides genetic engineering soil rhizosphere bacteria improving pastures forest crop interactions sustainable management of agroecosystems new directions for research International in scope Allelopathy in Agroecosystems offers an abundance of scientific data on this revolutionary new concept It offers incalculable potential for rescuing farmed out land increasing crop yields and cutting back on expensive soil additives Every agronomist environmental scientist policymaker agricultural librarian and advocate of sustainable farming needs this book Biologically Active Natural Products ,1988 Allelopathy Manuel J. Allelopathy in Ecological Agriculture and Forestry S.S. Narwal, R.E. Hoagland, R.H. Dilday, M. J. Reigosa Roger, 2012-12-06 The rapidly growing human population has increased the dependence on fossil fuel based agrochemicals such as fertilizers and pesticides to produce the required agricultural and forestry products This has exerted a great pressure on the non renewable fossil fuel resources which cannot last indefinitely Besides indiscriminate use of pesticides for pests weeds insects nematodes pathogens control has resulted in serious ecological and environmental problems viz A Increasing incidence of resistance in pest organisms to important pesticides B Shift in pests population particularly in weeds and insects In weeds species that are more closely related to the crops they infest have developed In insects scenario is most grim the predators have been killed and minor insect pests have become major pests and require very heavy doses of highly toxic insecticides for their control C Greater environmental pollution and health hazards a particularly from contamination of surface and underground drinking water resources and b from their inhalation during handling and application D Toxic residues of pesticides pollute the environment and may prove hazardous to even our future generations E Some agricultural commodities may contain minute quantities of pesticides residues with long term adverse effects on human and livestock health Therefore serious ecological questions about the reliance on pesticides for pests control has been raised The use of fertilizers besides causing environmental problems has also impoverished the soil health and decreased the beneficial soil fauna For example in some major crop rotations viz
