Autumn Light Essays In Maturity:

Autumn Light Helen Hills, 2001-11-29 AUTUMN LIGHT is the ideal bedside book for the thoughtful reader. It is inspirational without being shallow. Its insightful anecdotes, stories, and fables are sometimes poignant, often humorous, and always thought-provoking. The author converses with the reader, sharing her often intimate musings and observations in a direct, frank, and engaging manner.

Keats's Boyish Imagination Richard Marggraf Turley, 2012-12-06 For many readers, John Keats's achievement is to have attained a supreme poetic maturity at so young an age. Canonical poems of resignation and acceptance such as To Autumn are traditionally seen as examples par excellence of this maturity. In this highly innovative study, however, Marggraf Turley examines how, for Keats, an insistence on boyishness in the midst of apparent mature imagery is the very essence of his political contestation of the literary establishment.

The History of Literature in Wei, Jin, Southern and Northern Dynasty Li Shi, The book is the volume of The History of Literature in Wei Jin Southern and Northern Dynasty among a series of books of Deep into China Histories. The earliest known written records of the history of China date from as early as 1250 BC from the Shang dynasty c. 1600-1046 BC and the Bamboo Annals 296 BC describe a Xia dynasty c. 2070-1600 BC before the Shang, but no writing is known from the period. The Shang ruled in the Yellow River valley, which is commonly held to be the cradle of Chinese civilization. However, Neolithic civilizations originated at various cultural centers along both the Yellow River and Yangtze River. These Yellow River and Yangtze civilizations arose millennia before the Shang. With thousands of years of continuous history, China is one of the world's oldest civilizations and is regarded as one of the cradles of civilization. The Zhou dynasty 1046-256 BC supplanted the Shang and introduced the concept of the Mandate of Heaven to justify their rule. The central Zhou government began to weaken due to external and internal pressures in the 8th century BC, and the country eventually splintered into smaller states during the Spring and Autumn period. These states became independent and warred with one another in the following Warring States period. Much of traditional Chinese culture, literature, and philosophy first developed during those troubled times. In 221 BC, Qin Shi Huang conquered the various warring states and created for himself the title of Huangdi or emperor of the Qin, marking the beginning of imperial China. However, the oppressive government fell soon after his death and was supplanted by the longer-lived Han dynasty 206 BC-220 AD. Successive dynasties developed bureaucratic systems that enabled the emperor to control vast territories directly. In the 21 centuries from 206 BC until AD 1912, routine administrative tasks were handled by a special elite of scholar-officials. Young men well-versed in calligraphy, history, literature, and philosophy were carefully selected through difficult government examinations. China's last dynasty was the Qing 1644-1912, which was replaced by the Republic of China in 1912, and in the mainland by the People's Republic of China in 1949 Chinese history has alternated between periods of political unity and peace and periods of war and failed statehood the most recent being the Chinese Civil War 1927-1949 China was occasionally dominated by steppe peoples most of whom were eventually assimilated into the Han Chinese culture and population Between eras of multiple kingdoms and warlordism Chinese dynasties have ruled parts or all of China in some eras control stretched as far as Xinjiang and Tibet as at present Traditional culture and influences from other parts of Asia and the Western world carried by waves of immigration cultural assimilation expansion and foreign contact form the basis of the modern culture of China

The Mature Laurel Adam Czerniawski, 1991 Traces the course of Polish poetry from Norwid to the New Wave virtually the whole of this century Polish Heritage Informative and engaging Composed of three distinctly structured sections The first the most ambitious consists of two essays by Czerniawski that together attempt to provide a background for the rest of the contributions In Part 2 seven English writers comment on a single Polish poem that is particularly meaningful to them These are light but intriguing The third section is composed of ten solid essays in literary criticism by English writers who know Polish poetry only in translation and by emigre Polish writers and scholars The blend of interests and perspectives is particularly effective and fascinating Recommended for the general reader of poetry graduate and upper division undergraduate levels Choice
