WORKSHOP

Workshop: Reflection and Metalevel Architectures in Object-Oriented Programming

Organizer:

Mamdouh H. Ibrahim
Electronic Data Systems

1. Introduction

Recently, the notion of having object-oriented languages that allow their programs to reason about themselves or reflect on their computations has attracted the attention of many researchers. This interest in reflection did not materialize until Pattie Maes presented her paper "Concepts and Experiments in Computational Reflection," at OOPSLA-87, in which she exposed the strong relationship between reflection and object-oriented programming. Since then, many others have developed and implemented several object-oriented languages and systems that provide reflective facilities.

Initiative of this workshop on Reflection and Metalevel Architectures in Object-Oriented Programming emerged from a Birds of a Feather session, on the same topic, that was held during OOPSLA-89 in New Orleans. The overwhelming interest in that BOF and the numerous issues that were left unresolved prompted us to propose and organize this workshop.

The following is a summary of the workshop organization and activities.

2. Workshop Objectives, Goals, and Format

The main objectives of the workshop were to gather researchers, actively involved in the design, implementation, and development of reflective object-oriented programming languages and systems, and to provide them with a forum suitable for identifying and discussing related issues. Particular goals of the workshop were to identify issues, discuss them, draw conclusions, and establish future directions for research concerned with reflection in object-oriented programming.

To assure that the workshop would meet its objectives, invitations were issued only to those who submitted relevant papers. Accepted papers ranged from short position papers in which the authors addressed broad implications, to conference-quality, full papers addressing specific work. Copies of accepted papers were distributed to the workshop participants in advance to familiarize them with the positions of other participants.

The workshop was divided into five sessions: (1) definitions and theoretical foundations, (2) broader implications, (3) implementation, (4) reflective systems, and (5) reflection in concurrent systems. Each session was moderated by one of the workshop organizers. At the beginning of each session, the moderator presented a set of open questions relevant to the session and called upon selected participants to briefly address some of these questions. The rest

Wilkes,ACM Special Interest Group on Programming Languages,1994 Product-Focused Software Process Improvement Muhammad Ali Babar,Matias Vierimaa,Markku Oivo,2010-06-11 This book constitutes the refereed proceedings of the 11th International Conference on Product Focused Software Process Improvement PROFES 2010 held in Limerick Ireland in June 2010 The 28 revised full papers presented together with the abstracts of 2 keynote addresses were carefully reviewed and selected from numerous submissions The papers are organized in topical sections on software quality assurance agile software development software business software systems process quality software measurement and software process improvement OOP & Java 8 Rudolf Pecinovsky,2016-12-13 Majority of introductory courses of the object oriented programming presents a number of object constructions and syntax rules in certain programming language However mostly they do not illustrate the explained subject matter on the development of some non trivial program which would contain at least 20 mutually connected and cooperating classes This book tries to fill this gap It should serve as a basis for repeating the lessons and at the same time as a guide leading the students step by step through the development of the text conversation game adventure which should correspond to a set of conditions Simultaneously it should help them to learn how to work with external libraries and frameworks In the explanation the passages describing what should be solved alternate with those going through the theory how similar problem classes are solved and with those entering the real steps for solving the assigned problem The application described in this book as well as the framework on which the application stands can be a reasonable inspiration for teachers who search an example for exercise not only at universities but also at a number of secondary schools teaching programming

Addendum to the Proceedings on Object-oriented Programming Systems, Languages and Applications ,1999 Object-Based Models and Languages for Concurrent Systems Paolo Ciancarini,Oscar Nierstrasz,Akinori Yonezawa,1995-06-20 This volume presents carefully refereed versions of the best papers presented at the Workshop on Models and Languages for Coordination of Parallelism and Distribution held during ECOOP 94 in Bologna Italy in July 1994 Recently a new class of models and languages for distributed and parallel programming has evolved all these models share a few basic concepts simple features for data description and a small number of mechanisms for coordinating the work of agents in a distributed setting This volume demonstrates that integrating such features with those known from concurrent object oriented programming is very promising with regard to language support for distribution and software composition
