Adopting Maternity White Women Who Adopt Transracially Or Transnationally:

Adopting Maternity Nora Moosnick, 2004-03-30 Discusses the issues related to race class and gender involved in adoption based on in depth interviews with 22 adoptive mothers This text compares and contrasts the experiences of white women who adopted Asian black or biracial children The bulk of the book is dedicated to presenting the women s words as they talk about their perceptions of fertility treatments birth mothers other mothers adoption processes and outsiders reactions among other matters Feminist discourse is used to examine the applicability of these theories to women s self characterizations Beginning with an overview of the theoretical basis of the book discussions of becoming an adoptive mother and the realities of being an adoptive mother follow Each chapter presents feelings and experiences of adoptive mothers in addition to analysis that brings these feelings into broader societal context This honest portrayal will offer adoptive families adoption professionals and social workers important insights into mothers adoptive experiences Scholars of women s studies social work and sociology will find this volume useful as well Adoption and Multiculturalism Jenny Heijun Wills, Tobias Hubinette, Indigo Willing, 2020-09-11 Adoption and Multiculturalism features the voices of international scholars reflecting transnational and transracial adoption and its relationship to notions of multiculturalism The essays trouble common understandings about who is being adopted who is adopting and where these acts are taking place challenging in fascinating ways the tidy master narrative of saviorhood and the concept of a monolithic Western receiving nation Too often the presumption is that the adoptive and receiving country is one that celebrates racial and ethnic diversity thus making it superior to the conservative and insular places from which adoptees arrive The volume s contributors subvert the often simplistic ways that multiculturalism is linked to transnational and transracial adoption and reveal how troubling multiculturalism in fact can be The contributors represent a wide range of disciplines cultures and connections in relation to the adoption constellation bringing perspectives from Europe including Scandinavia Canada the United States and Australia The book brings together the various methodologies of literary criticism history anthropology sociology and cultural theory to demonstrate the multifarious and robust ways that adoption and multiculturalism might be studied and considered Edited by three transnational and transracial adoptees Adoption and Multiculturalism Europe the Americas and the Pacific offers bold new scholarship that revises popular notions of transracial and transnational adoption as practice and phenomenon

Unequal Motherhoods and the Adoption of Asian Children Jungyun Gill, 2016-12-13 This book explores a deeply personal aspect of globalization the adoption of Asian children by white Americans It is based on dozens of interviews with adoptive mothers and adoption social workers nearly two hundred letters and essays written by Korean birth mothers who put their children up for adoption and field work at an adoption agency in South Korea It also includes analyses and explanations of U S and South Korean governments social characteristics and policies regarding adoptions and how relations between nations have affected international adoption The book focuses on whether the commonly held notion that adoptions are to serve children's welfare and their best interests has tended to render gendered aspects of international adoptions invisible. Factors such as gender inequality, social control of women's reproductive power, patriarchic family structure, and social beliefs concerning womanhood and motherhood that affect international adoptions are revealed in this book. The multiple ways in which adoptive birth and foster mothers experience gender oppression from their different social positions of class, race, and nationality are explored, and the interdependencies and inequalities of the motherhoods of these three groups of women are brought to light.

Disrupting Kinship Kimberly D. McKee, 2019-03-02 Since the Korean War began, Western families have adopted more than 200,000 Korean children. Two thirds of these adoptees found homes in the United States. The majority joined white families and in the process forged a new kind of transnational and transracial kinship. Kimberly D. McKee examines the growth of the neocolonial, multi-million dollar global industry that shaped these families, a system she identifies as the transnational adoption industrial complex. As she shows, an alliance of the South Korean welfare state, orphanages, adoption agencies, and American immigration laws powered transnational adoption between the two countries. Adoption became a tool to supplement an inadequate social safety net for South Korea's unwed mothers and low-income families. At the same time, it commodified children, building a market that allowed Americans to create families at the expense of loving biological ties between Koreans. McKee also looks at how Christian Americanism, South Korean welfare policy, and other facets of adoption interact with and disrupt American perceptions of nation, citizenship, belonging, family, and ethnic identity.

Arab and Jewish Women in Kentucky Nora Rose Moosnick, 2012-06-29 Outwardly it would appear that Arab and Jewish immigrants comprise two distinct groups with differing cultural backgrounds and an adversarial relationship. Yet as immigrants who have settled in communities at a distance from metropolitan areas, both must negotiate complex identities. Growing up in Kentucky as the granddaughter of Jewish immigrants, Nora Rose Moosnick observed this traditionally mismatched pairing firsthand, finding that Arab and Jewish immigrants have been brought together by their shared otherness and shared fears. Even more intriguing to Moosnick was the key role played by immigrant women of both cultures in family businesses, a similarity which brings the two groups close together as they try to balance the demands of integration into American society. In Arab and Jewish Women in Kentucky: Stories of Accommodation and Audacity, Moosnick reveals how Jewish and Arab women have navigated the intersection of tradition, assimilation, and Kentucky's cultural landscape. The stories of ten women's experiences as immigrants or the children of immigrants join around common themes of public service to their communities, intergenerational relationships, running small businesses, and the difficulties of juggling family and work. Together, their compelling narratives give greater voice to Arabs and Jews in America's rural areas.

Weaving a Family Barbara Katz Rothman, 2006-05-01 Weaving together the sociological, the historical, and the personal, Barbara Katz Rothman looks at the contemporary American family through the lens of race, race through the lens of adoption, and all race, family, and adoption within the context of the changing meanings of motherhood.

Transforming Family

Jocelyn A. Frelier, 2022-11 One of the lasting legacies of colonialism is the assumption that families should conform to a kinship arrangement built on normative nuclear individuality based models An alternate understanding of familial aspiration is one cultivated across national borders and cultures and beyond the constraints of diasporas This alternate understanding which imagines a category of trans families relies on decolonial and queer intellectual thought to mobilize or transform power across borders In Transforming Family Jocelyn Frelier examines a selection of novels penned by francophone authors in France Morocco and Algeria including Azouz Begag Nina Bouraoui Fouad Laroui Le la Sebbar Le la Slimani and Abdellah Ta a Each novel contributes a unique argument about this alternate understanding of family questioning how family relates to race gender class embodiment and intersectionality Arguing that trans families are always already queer Frelier opens up new spaces of agency for both family units and individuals who seek representation and fulfilling futures The novels analyzed in Transforming Family as well as the families they depict resist classification and delink the legacies of colonialism from contemporary modes of being As a result these novels create trans identities for their protagonists and contribute to a scholarly understanding of the becoming trans of cultural production As international political debates related to migration the family unit and the global migrant crisis surge Frelier destabilizes governmental criteria for the regrouping of families by turning to a set of definitions found in the cultural production of members of the francophone North African diaspora
